Russ Aide Expelled

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States today ordered a first secretary at the Soviet Embassy expelled on charges that he paid an American citizen to seek U.S. government employment.

Ordered to leave was Valentin M. Ivanov.

The expulsion order was announced a few minutes after Soviet Ambassador Mikhail Menshikov was summoned to the State Department for a conference.

The state department said Ivanov, 39, "Importuned an American citizen, Roger C. Foss, to obtain employment in a U.S. government agency and gave him substantial sums of money for this purpose."

Foss, 32, who describes himself as a member of the so-called "American Nazi Party," said he met Ivanov about a year ago in a restaurant in New York City.

At the same time the State Department said Col. Karoly Laszlo, a Hungarian military attache was barred from returning to this county because he failed to identify himself while seeking "various publications" from American business firms.

Hungary retaliated today by ousting U.S. military attache Col. Carl Watkins Miller from Budapest.

Marin Boy, 3, Dies In Ranch Accident

A three-year-old boy was killed instantly this morning on a dairy ranch on Point Reyes when he was struck by a trailer dolly that slipped down on him from the rear of a truck to which it had been attached.

The boy, Steven Spaletta, was playing alone in the ranch yard about 8:15 a.m. near or on the truck.

Deputy County Coroner Harold Keaton said the boy's father, James L. Spaletta, owner of the ranch, found his son shortly after the accident lying in the dirt next to the dolly.

The boy was taken by his father in a car to Marin General Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival by Dr. Richard Wolk.

Dr. Wolk told hospital attendants he thought the child had probably been killed instantly.

The boy's father told Keaton that the youngster must have been playing with the dolly and somehow caused it to come loose. He said no one saw the accident.

The boy is survived by his father, his mother, Mrs. Mary L. Spaletta and two brothers, James Spaletta, 4, and Ernest Spaletta, 6, all of the ranch home.

Paper Says Chessman Left A Daughter

RICHMOND (AP) — Caryl Chessman left a pretty, dark-haired daughter, now 17 years old, the Richmond Independent said in a copyrighted story today.

Chessman, convicted "Red Light Bandit," died in San Quentin Prison's gas chamber May 2.

Attorney Rosalie Asher of Sacramento, only recently denied that Chessman had a daughter. No mention of a child was made in his will.

The Independent said it had letters exchanged between Chessman and the mother of his daughter.

Reporter John Raymond, in a story copyrighted 1960 by Owens Publications, Inc., wrote about the girl:

"She is very much like any other 17-year-old girl. Right now she's a senior in high school. A little on the tall side, she's slender and pretty, with dark hair.

"There's only one difference, one thing that sets her apart, although she doesn't know it.

"She's Caryl Chessman's daughter."

U.N. Troops Start Takeover From Belgians In Katanga

ELISABETHVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — United Nations troops today began relieving Belgian troops in secession-bent Katanga province, signalling the first bloom of success by U. N. Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold in his talks with provincial Premier Moise Tshombe.

A communique issued after the second round of talks between Hammarskjold and Tshombe said U. N. and Belgian military commanders had decided to "relieve Belgian troops in Katanga by U. N. troops immediately."

Swedish troops took over guard duties from the Belgians this afternoon at Elisabethville airport.

Earlier today, police arrested 40 demonstrators who shouted "down with Tshombe" and "vive Hammarskjold" while they marched toward the guest house where Hammarskjold was staying.

Tough Katangese police rushed into action against the demonstration by members of a group opposing Tshombe just as they left their headquarters enroute to Hammarskjold's residence.

Five persons were injured when a car full of teen-agers rammed into the rear end of a parked pickup truck north of the Waldo Tunnel early this morning, the California Highway Patrol reported.

John L. Whitehouse, 17, of 855 Solano Drive, Lafayette, was driving north on U.S. Highway 101 at 12:27 a.m. when he smashed into the rear of the parked pickup driven by Honor Jackson, 36, of House 533 Marin City, the patrol said.

Two of the teen-age passengers in the car were hospitalized after the accident and two others and a woman riding in the truck were treated at Marin General and later released.

Big Balloon Bounces Phone Conversations

HOLMDEL, N. J. (AP) — Men conversed back an forth by telephone via an artificial satellite for the first time today.

It appeared the first such phone call may have been hooked up between Texas and Iowa rather than New Jersey and California as was first announced.

A scientist at the Bell Telephone Laboratories here held a two-way talk with a colleague in Goldstone, Calif., for a few brief moments. The radio signals carrying their voices bounced off the Echo I satellite some 1,000 miles in space.

But at Dallas, Tex., the Alpha Corp., announced its engineers had talked earlier with engineers of the Collins Radio Corp. at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, also using the satellite.

The Bell labs telphone hookup "wasn't much of a conversation," a spokesman said.

As monitored on tape, here is how it sounded:

"Hello, this is Bill Jakes calling Phil Tardani at Jet Propulsion Laboratory," the project manager for Bell said. "Are you reading me out there?"

"Yes, we're reading you loud and clear," came the reply.

"Ah, hah! We're reading you loud and clear," said Jakes. "Sounds pretty good."

U-2 Pilot's Father To Make Personal Appeal To Nikita

MOSCOW (AP) — Oliver W. Powers said today he will appeal directly to Premier Nikita Khrushchev "as one father to another" for the sake of his son, Francis Gary Powers, who goes on trial Wednesday accused of espionage.

Speaking at a news conference several hours after arriving in Moscow to attend the trial, Powers said that on Monday he will ask to see the Soviet Premier.

Throughout the news conference, which lasted only a few minutes, Powers either sobbed or fought to stifle his sobs. His cheeks were wet with tears.

Most of the news conference was taken up by Powers' reading a brief statement handwritten on a small piece of stationery.

The statement said: "Mrs. Powers and I have come to the Soviet Union for the sole purpose of doing all that we can to help our son. I am sure that any other parents would do the same if their boy was in trouble, and I appeal to Mr. Khrushchev as one father to another, for the sake of my boy. . . .

"As a father, I appeal to this common bond of human sympathy which I believe is stronger than all the issues of politics that separate us . . ."

Farewell In Music At Housewarming

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

The party which Mr. and Mrs. Cloyd Kimball are hosting tomorrow night will be both a farewell and housewarming. The Kimballs, who sold their home in Kent Woodlands to the Kenneth Abernathys formerly of Pittsburgh, Pa., bought an old home at 103 Central Avenue in Sausalito which they have great fun remodeling. Tomorrow night their friends will see the results of their project.

Farewells will be said to Stephanie Shehatovich who will give a piano recital at the party. Miss Shehatovich, who has been with the Music Department at Dominican for 14 years, is leaving to take the post of artist in residence at the West Virginia University.

The recital will be followed by a champagne reception. Guests are coming from San Francisco and Burlingame. Those from Marin will be Messrs. and Mesdames John McInnis, James Goodale, Robert Schultz, Frank Boileau, Joseph Curtilo, Rex Silvernale and Edward R. Hindley.

EXTENSIVELY entertained during her visit here is Mrs. Paul D. Tracy (Virginia Howell) who with her three children, Barbara, 14, Sheila, 9, and Kevin, 6, arrived last week to stay with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles L. Howell of Villa Real, for about a month. The Tracys live in Kingsville, Tex. Paul, who is division engineer with the Missouri Pacific Railroad will join his wife and children during the latter part of their visit.

It is 11 years since Virginia has been home and her former schoolmates are enjoying talking over old times with her. One of these, Mrs. Edna Lemke, gave a luncheon in Virginia's honor a week ago at the Alta Mira. Yesterday Mrs. John Breach gave a luncheon and bridge party at her San Rafael home for the visitor. Today Virginia was entertained by her cousin, Mrs. Bob Crosby (Margaret Duffy) at her home in Woodside at a luncheon and swimming party. On Tuesday Mrs. Howell's niece, Mrs. William Hourgan (Estelle Chisholm) gave a party for Virginia at her San Francisco home. Wednesday Virginia and her mother were guests of Mrs. William Schulz at the fashion luncheon at Marin Art and Garden Center. Miss Betty Grimm of San Rafael has set Aug. 20 as the date for the luncheon she is giving for Virginia.

EXCITED are the two young daughters of the Huntley Bennetts over the vacation trip which starts on Monday. Alice and Huntley with Anne, 8, and Nancy 6, are driving north to Eureka and Fort Bragg. Then they'll go over to the Lassen country in hopes for good fishing. The girls, who have never fished before, have new poles, lines and reels, which they hope to put to good use.

FRIENDS and relatives have been invited to the Donald Perry's dinner party a week from tonight. Guests will be Dr. and Mrs. Robert Taylor, Don's son, Warren Perry, and his wife, Don's brother, Malcolm Perry, and his wife, his brother-in-law and sister, the Frank Greenes, Alice Perry's niece, Mrs. James Tasley, and Mr. Tasley, also the Rowland Chapmans, Wallace Hickmans, Jerrold Hoopers, Hammond Wrights and Ernest Smiths who will come down from Glen Ellen where they have a beautiful new home.

WHILE Marcella Campion was vacationing at Silver Sands at Lake Tahoe with her sisters, Mrs. Charles Clifford and Mrs. Edward Strehl, her husband, John, was away on a pack trip into the high Sierra. Each year John and his pals make the trip from Muir Gorge in the Yosemite for mountain fishing. Among those in the group were a number of professional men, doctors and lawyers.

AT FABULOUS Carolands, Countess Lillian Dandini entertained several of her friends at dinner on Thursday night. I went down to Hillsborough with Joe and Margaret Rice and her brother, Gene O'Connor, and his wife. Already there were Stephanie and Edson Adams of San Anselmo and up from Belmont came the Vincent Raneys. The countess has met the Raneys at the vernissage at their home early in July when Mrs. Raney, a wonderful artist, showed her portrait of Stephanie. Other guests were the countess' neighbors, Federal Court Judge Albert Stephens, and his wife.

When I visited with the countess when she was in San Rafael last week for a meeting on the proposed new highway which involves some of her property, we talked of county history and she told me about her father, Peter Nicholas Remillard, a French-Canadian, who had several brickyards in Marin County in the early days. She said she would give me a picture of him for the Marin County Historical Society museum. Then came the invitation to dinner. I accepted quickly and told her I had always wanted to see Carolands.

This famous home, which once had a vast estate (the countess has just six acres now), resembles a castle, even has a moat around it. The massive structure of 92 rooms, four stories high, stands on a knoll with beautiful lawns and terraces. Two of the four huge iron grille gates were open and we walked up wide white marble steps to the doorway where we were met by Jim, who doubles as chauffeur when the countess wants to ride.

Voices floated down to us as we walked up carpeted marble steps to a balcony on which the rooms of the first floor open. Graciously the countess greeted us and then took us up in the elevator (she has two) to her room to lay aside our wraps.

We gathered in the library for our pre-dinner drinks. The countess invited us to stroll about and look at the rooms. She has filled the hbouse with furniture and antiques she has brought from all parts of the world. In a huge music room are two pianos on a stage. Gold predominates in the French room and the countess told us all the furniture and ornaments had been given to her by a friend. She voiced regret she had not accepted a gold-plated piano.

Particularly enthusiastic was our hostess over two rooms which are now being assembled. The rooms were brought from a castle in France and had been in storage for 30 years. The walls and the carved white marble fireplaces (four of these) and the hardwood floors, wonderful examples of marquetry, are now put in the places designed for them.

And we must see, too, the countess' room built to accommodate her wardrobe. The walls and cabinet doors are all mirrors. Cabinet shelves hold the countess' shoes and a special closet was designed for her furs.

Ourt our was interrupted by summons to dinner. Our hostess sat at one end of the long red satin covered table and her secretary was at the other. Massive silver candelabra formed the centerpiece. The countess, who was born in Oakland, and Edson, who was seated next to me and to her, and who belongs to a pioneer and prominent East Bay family, carried on a lively conversation about mutual friends and relatives. After dinner we again adjourned to the library and then the tour of the home was resumed. The countess was tireless and when someone asked about the kitchens she invited us to see them. Joe, who was leaving on a deer-hunting trip next morning, and Vince Raney, who was piloting his own plane to southern California on business, cried quits. And so we said our adieux and thanks to our hostess.

TREASURE ISLAND was the locals of the dinner party Capt. and Mrs. Harold B. Roberts gave Sunday night in honor of their house guests, Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Baker of Chevy Chase, Md. Accompanying the Bakers West were their two daughters, Brenda and Phyllis Baker. Mr. Baker is the vice president in charge of the office of the United Fruit Company in Washington, D. C. Guests at the dinner were friends of the guests of honor, whom they had known in the capital.

A PREVIEW of the redecorated dining room of the Women's Athletic Club in San Francisco on Wednesday will be featured by a 12:30 p. m. luncheon and fashion show. Two erstwhile Marinites, Mrs. Arthur Dettner and Mrs. Charles N. Fulcher, are making arrangements. Mrs. Dettner is activities chairman and Mrs. Fulcher, recently appointed first vice president of the club, is dining room chairman and for the past two months has supervised the redecoration of the room. A Preview Under Lights is scheduled from Thursday, Aug. 25, which will be games night.

Among those attending the luncheon will be Mesdames Louis B. Dundborg, Allan K. Hulme, Harry Caboud, Harold Schutte and Fred McFarland.

VERY MUCH on the go are Dr. and Mrs. John Zolezzi, who have a summer place in Fairfax. Yesterday they left for eight or nine days at Aetna Springs. They recently returned from a week at Del Monte Lodge. They were accompanied home by their daughter, Jane, who attends Santa Catalina School.

The Zolezzis have issued invitations for a party on Aug. 28. They'll entertain their guests at their Fairfax place for cocktails, then take them to the Meadow Club for dinner.

TWO COCKTAIL parties instead of one will be hosted by Dr. and Mrs. Ottiwell Wood Jones Jr. of San Anselmo. They issued invitations to one on Aug. 21 to honor their son, Dr. Ottiwell W. Jones III, and his wife, who have been living in Maryland. He is with the Department of Public Health in Bethesda and he has another year to serve there. Their visit here was delayed and they won't arrive until mid-September. However, the party a week from tomorrow will be held. The Maryland couple will fly out with their year-old son, Ottiwell Jones IV, and after their arrival, his parents will set another party date. The young medico is planning on several hunting trips, one with his father, and another with his cousin, Dwight Merriman Jr., which will be a deer hunt in Nevada.

The Jones family has a number of outstanding members of the medical profession. The late Dr. O. W. Jones, father of Dr. Ottiwell W. Jones Jr., was a pioneer doctor in San Anselmo. Ann Jones, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Jones Jr., who was graduated from UC in June, is now making a three months tour of Europe. She will train as a laboratory technician at Children's Hospital. Her other brother, Charles Jones, is not following a medical career. He is composing music in Hollywood.

HONORING Dr. and Mrs. Edmond Mahon of Mill Valley, who are leaving soon for an extended Caribbean cruise from New Orleans, the Harold Schuttes of Ross are entertaining at a cocktail party and buffet supper on Aug. 20.

Incidentally, the Schuttes are making plans for a move. They have bought a large (three bedrooms and baths) community apartment at 1755 Jackson Street, San Francisco, and are selling their home here. Justina says she and Harold will be commuting this way to keep in touch with Marin friends.

A Romance In Sitka Results In San Anselmo Nuptial Rite

St. Anselm's Church in San Anselmo was the setting for the recent wedding of Virginia Sue Bergin and Charles Arbain Armer. The romance of the couple began when they were attending high school in Sitka, Alaska from which they were graduated. Virginia, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Bergin of San Anselmo, was making her home with her sister, Miss Carroll Bergin who resides in Sitka. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James Thompson of Sitka.

The Rev. Donald Kelly officiated at the double ring ceremony and altar boys were the bride's brother, Philip Bergin of San Anselmo, and Patrick Barnes of San Francisco.

Virginia, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a white lace sheath over pale blue taffeta and matching blue was her net picture hat. She carried a bouquet of white roses and orchids with bouvardia.

Mrs. Paul B. Neese of San Anselmo, sister of the bride, who was matron of honor, wore a gown of white organdy with a pink embroidered top bodice. A wreath of pink carnations was on her hair. Pink carnations and roses were her bouquet.

The bride's brother, James Bergin of San Anselmo was best man. Her niece, Cindy Granados of San Anselmo, flower girl, was frocked in pink cotton. Baby roses were in the wreath on her hair and she carried a basket filled with red and pink baby roses. White gladioli were the altar decorations. Mrs. John Kriel was the organist.

A reception for family members only followed the wedding. The newlyweds, who went to northern California on the wedding trip, will reside in San Anselmo.

For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Bergin wore a black silk dress with white hat and a white orchid corsage.

Rita Denning Weds At Fairfax Church

White chrysanthemums, stock and gladioli decorated the altar of St. Rita's Church in Fairfax for Saturday's wedding of Rita Marie Denning and David Sanchez.

Rev. Nicholas Farana officiated at the single ring ceremony. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. Denning of Fairfax and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Antonio C. Sanchez of Carpinteria, Calif.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a ballerina gown of white silk organza over taffeta with bands of embroidery. Her chapel length veil was held in place by a bandeau of embroidery and seed pearls. She carried a bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley with a touch of blue forget-me-nots.

As honor attendant for her sister, Judith Denning wore a turquoise gown of silk organza with matching headband with circular veil and carried an old fashioned bouquet of small yellow carnations and stephanotis.

Donald Lais of Carpinteria was best man and Larry Michals of Santa Barbara and Richard Denning of Fairfax were ushers.

For her daughter's wedding the bride's mother wore an ivory brocaded sheath with royal blue accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose an outfit of tan with matching accessories. Both mothers had white orchid corsages.

The bridegroom has one sister, Mrs. Kennedy Perkins of Santa Barbara. The bride has two brothers, Richard and Michael.

The bride wore a white outfit with powder blue accessories when the newlywed pair left for their honeymoon in Mexico.

The newly married couple will reside in Santa Barbara.

MORMON CHAPEL PLANNED FOR NOVATO—This is an achitect's drawing of the Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-day Saint's Ward chapel proposed for Novato at Kendon Lane and Center Road. The $125,000 structure is to be built by Mormon contractors and other members of the congregation who will give their time and labor in order that the project may be completed by January.

'Stuffed Shirt' Type Ministers Repel Recruits

By LOUIS CASSELS
U P International

Would you want your son to become a clergyman?

If he showed a tentative interest in the ministry, would you encourage him to give his life selflessly to a high calling? Or discourage him by emphasizing the sacrifices, the long hours, the poor pay?

Churches are asking America's Christian parents to answer these questions honestly . . . to examine their consciences and determine whether their materialistic ambitions for their children may not be a basic factor in the present shortage of ministerial candidates.

They are also asking local pastors to do some soul-searching. Are they serving as effective recruiting agents for their own profession? If so, why does the average U. S. congregation produce only one ministerial candidate every 25 years?

PROBLEM SERIOUS

The problem is getting serious in virtually every major denomination. The Methodist Church, for example, needs 2,000 new ministers each year, but is getting fewer than half that number from its seminaries. The United Presbyterian Church says it must double the number of students attending its seminaries by 1970 in order to meet minimum requirements. Catholics, Lutherans, Baptists, Episcopalians and others are worried about the same thing.

A variety of denominational programs have been launched to stimulate more interest among young people in the priesthood and ministry. Vocational conferences are held, brochures and booklets are distributed, and special Sundays are set aside to focus attention on the responsibililty of every Christian to decide prayerfully what God wants him to do with his life.

GROWING CONVICTION

But there is a growing conviction among church leaders that these efforts will accomplish little until parents and local pastors do their part.

"Every study of the influences leading men to respond to the call of the ministry shows the preeminent importance of the home and the local pastor in the minister's vocational decision," says a recent report from the Methodist Church's department of ministerial education.

Dr. J. Ray Houser, president of Waterloo Lutheran Theological Seminary, puts it more bluntly. The shortage of ministerial candidates, he says, can be traced to the negative influence exerted by "the stuffed-shirt type of pastor who fails to enter into the life of his youth" and "the materially-minded parent whose criterion of his son's success is size of income."

INDICTMENT BROADER

Others would broaden Dr. Houser's indictment to include the entire congregation. They would say that until most churchgoers give evidence of taking seriously Christ's command to "take up thy cross and follow me," it is perhaps unreasonable to expect the young people reared in their midst to make career choices that are motivated by a desire for service and a willingness for self-sacrifice.

Dean Oxtoby To Preach

At the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Richardson Bay tomorrow, Dr. Gurdon C. Oxtoby will deliver the first of a series of sermons on "Our Christian Faith: What Is It?" The series will continue through the month at the church's Sunday 9:30 a. m. worship services.

Dr. Oxtoby, Dean of Faculty and Professor of Old Testament at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, will speak tomorrow on "The Test of Truth." He will discuss the ways in which Christ makes Himself known to men and how they can recognize His message.

Pastor To Return

Rev. Paul C. R. Peterson, pastor of the First Congregational Church of San Rafael, will occupy his pulpit tomorrow at the 10 a. m. worship service after an absence of two weeks during which time he was directing Christian retreats at Redwood Park, near Santa Cruz and at Camp Sierra, near Fresno.

Church Members Plan To Build Novato Chapel

Members of the Novato Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter-day Saints (Mormon) have begun work on a do-it-yourself $125,000 chapel.

Member contractors in the congregation of 200 are donating labor for the project. By the time the building at Kendon Lane and Center Road is enclosed sometime in October, members will be working from morning to midnight and on Saturdays, aiming to complete the building by January 1. Each member will contribute about a day's labor a week.

The L-shaped structure will have 6,000 square feet of space and parking accommodation for 93 cars. The one-story building will have a chapel seating 300 persons and nine rooms in a wing a portion of which can be divided to provide more rooms. A gymnasium-recreation center is planned for a future addition.

The building will be of wood, with large glass wall-windows and mosaic tile and stucco chapel walls. Earl John Taylor, Sacramento, was the architect.

Members of the church's Novato ward have been planning chapel construction since the 4.84 acres of ground were acquired five years ago.

Novato ward members now attend the Greenbrae chapel, with the youth meeting at the Novato Community Club clubhouse. Douglas H. Larsen is bishop of the Novato Ward; Paul Bach is first councillor; Merrill E. Larsen is second councillor.

The school will have a picnic Aug. 19, and a closing family night program Aug. 26, said Rev. Miller.

Tomorrow's general sessions are to be held in the Veterans' Auditorium, Petaluma, at 10 a. m. and 2 p. m.

Featured speaker at the sessions will be Elder El Ray L. Christiansen, an assistant to the Council of Twelve Apostles of the Mormon Church, and president of the Mormon Temple in Salt Lake City.

Today's meetings were to be for lay leaders and devoted to local and world missionary programs, plus the Church Welfare Plan.

Methodist Church To Hold Vacation School Monday

The school session, to begin Monday at the church and continue for two weeks, will include daily classes from 9 a. m. to 11:30 a. m. There will be a projects display in the evening, Aug. 26, said Mrs. Heare, who will be assisted in registration by Mrs. Bernard Bowen.

The theme of the school, sponsored by the Methodist Church's Commission on Education, will be the "Church."

Leaders of the departments will be: Mrs. Frank Grossman, kindergarten; Mrs. Ralph Phelps, primary, and Mrs. Fred Horton, junior.

Divinity Student

Beryl Smith, a divinity student at the Bob Jones University, Greenville, S. C., will speak at both the 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m. worship services at the Calvary Baptist Church in Larkspur tomorrow.

PLAY CATCH—WITH YOURSELF

Radio KTIM Sports Director Ted Mitchell (right) and California Semi-Pro Baseball Commissioner S. L. "Brick" Swegle show model Charlotte Huebner how to use the "pitch-back" gadget that is a rage among the junior set. KTIM will present "pitch-backs" to the two boys who return the most foul balls hit during the week-end games in the California Semi-Pro Tournament games at San Rafael's Albert Field.

Owens' Great Record Finally Falls

WALNUT, Calif. (AP) — The oldest track and field record of them all has tumbled with three others into a pile of wreckage left by perhaps the most formidable team the United States has ever sent to the Olympic games.

The collapse came last night when 21-year-old Ralph Boston of Tennessee A&I sprang from the board at the edge of the broadjump pit and came down 26 feet, 11¼ inches away.

That was just three inches farther than the immortal Jesse Owens flew with flailing arms one day in May of 1935, when he set a record that looked as though it might survive challenges as long as George Herman Ruth's 60 home runs.

"Jesse said it was all right to break it," Boston told reporters. "He's tired of it."

Boston's historic leap was just one of four world record-breaking performances in the U.S. team's final pre-Olympic meet at St. San Antonio College.

The others:

Hal Connolly, Southern California Striders, 230 feet, 9 inches in the hammer throw (bettering his own record of 225-4, set in 1958).

Bill Nieder, Army, 65 feet, 10 inches in the shot put (bettering his pending record of 65-7, set last August).

The team of Eddie Southern, Earl Young, Otis Davis and Jack Yerman, 3:05.6 in the mile relay (bettering the record of the U.S. national team of 1956). The second team in last night's relay — Cliff Cushman, Ted Woods, Jerry Siebert and Glenn Davis—also broke the record, finishing in 3:06.1. Two other world records were tied.

Rink Babka of the Southern California Striders equalled one by throwing the discus 196 feet, 6½ inches, and Dave Sime of the Duke Track Club tied the other, running 100 meters in 10.1 seconds. Poland's Edmund Platkowski set the discus record matched by Babka and three men hold the 100-meter mark tied by Sime.

In addition to this ton of talent, the United States will go to Rome with two other recent world record breakers. They are pole vaulter Don Bragg, who cleared 15 feet, 9¼ inches last month, and high jumper John Thomas, who went 7 feet, 3¾ inches a day later.

REDSKINS INVADE

49ers Play Home Opener Tomorrow

The San Francisco 49ers open their home National Football League exhibition season tomorrow against a Washington Redskin team that features an overhauled defense and Ralph Guglielmi, a fourth year NFL man, getting his first shot at the starting quarterback job.

After a 3-9 season in which the Redskins gave up 350 points, more than any other NFL club, Coach Mike Nixon traded and installed rookies to rebuild the defense.

The departure of Eddie LeBaron to the new Dallas NFL team paved the way for Guglielmi, a 1954 All-America at Notre Dame, who was instrumental in two of the three Washington victories in 1959. Guglielmi, however, never did take the No. 1 quarterback job from LeBaron.

The 49ers, 16-10 victors over Dallas at Seattle last week, start three rookies—end Dee Mackey, East Texas State, and halfback Tom Osborne, Hastings (Neb.) College on offense, and linebacker Gordon Kelley of Georgia on defense.

John Brodie quarterbacks the 49ers the first half and Y. A. Tittle, starting his 11th pro season, pitches the second half.

A crowd of 19,000 is expected for the 1:30 p.m. kickoff in Kezar Stadium.

Nixon has new Redskin linebackers in Bill Roehnelt, ex-Chicago Bear, and Dick Lasse, former Pittsburgh Steeler. Ray Krouse, 275-pound defensive tackle, was obtained from Baltimore.

Sam Horner, rookie speedster from VMI, and Pat Heenan, a first year man out of Notre Dame, are the newcomers in the backfield. The other starting defensive backs are second year men Dick Haley and Ben Scotti.

Hugh McElhenny and fullback J. D. Smith complete the starting 49er offensive backfield with C. R. Roberts and Billy Wilson certain to see plenty of action.

Charlie Krueger, who returned from Army duty last week, takes over the defensive right end assignment for the 49ers. Rookie Len Rohde of Utah State played there last week.

Raiders Plan All-Out Air War Tonight

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A wide open battle is anticipated here tonight when the New York Titans meet the Oakland Raiders in an American Football League exhibition game.

Both teams rely heavily on passing. Quarterback Dick Jamieson is the key man for the Titans. Tom Flores has been doing most of the pitching for Oakland.

The New Yorkers, coached by Sammy Baugh, feature the spread formation to make their passing game go. Jamieson is expected to do most of his throwing to Don Maynard and John Lewis.

Oakland has added passing strength in Bob Newman, former Washington State quarterback and the nation's leading college passer in 1957. Newman, who joined the Raiders this week, may see action tonight after boning up on Oakland offensive plays.

The Raiders' attack will be led by quarterback Flores, halfbacks Buddy Allen and Tony Teresa and pass catchers Charlie Hardy and Gene Prebola.

Raider Coach Eddie Erdelatz expects a close but high-scoring battle. He scouted the Titans' opening game and announced he was convinced New York had a lot of scoring potential. He said he planned to match pass for pass with the Titans.

Oakland will be without the services of at least two men. End Carl Isaacs has a twisted knee. Reserve quarterback Bob Webb has been sidelined a week. Erdelatz expects to have two players off the injury list—tackle Chris Plain and halfback L. C. Joyner. End Charley Powell and linebacker Tom Louderback, who missed the Dallas game because of hurts, are ready again.

New York is in top shape.

Giants Edge Closer To Sixth Place

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants, tumbling again after briefly breaking their fall, are closer to sixth place today than they are to the first division.

The Giants had lost six games straight before winning Thursday night. But the Braves beat San Francisco 4-2 last night and, like the old song, it's down, down, down they go.

The Braves' great southpaw, Warren Spahn (13-7) collected his 280th major league victory. San Francisco now is 5½ games above sixth place Cincinnati and six behind the Braves and Los Angeles Dodgers, who are tied for fourth.

The Braves broke Giant hurler Jack Sanford's string of 20 consecutive scoreless innings against them. But Sanford, ahead 2-0 until the fifth, needn't claim the blame.

The fatal fifth began when Lee Maye and Alvin Dark singled and Jim Marshall bobbled Johnny Logan's bunt loading the bases.

Mel Roach then smashed a three-run double. Insurance came on a bunt singled by Hank Aaron, who scored on an error by shortstop Andre Rodgers.

Orlando Cepeda's first-inning single drove in the Giants' first run and Felipe Alou homered in the fourth for the San Franciscans' other tally.

The Giants threatened for the last time in the eighth when Willie Mays led off with a single. Two outs later, Willie was off second when Mr. Spahn whirled and picked him off.

Tiburoners To Battle East Bay '9' Tomorrow

Tiburon Pelicans, eliminated 7-0 by Ben's Tavern of Alameda Thursday night in the California Semi-Pro Tournament in San Rafael, will meet that same team tomorrow on their home grounds of Tiburon's Judge Field.

The Ben's team will play under the name of Croll's tomorrow. Batterup time is 2:30 p.m.

Unitas, Colts Show Mid-Season Class

CHICAGO (AP)—Johnny Unitas still is the best gun this side of the Pecos.

The triggerman of the Baltimore Colts fired three touchdowns and an assortment of other shots last night in sending the National Football League champions to a 32-7 victory over a scrappy bunch of College All-Stars.

A crowd of 70,000 saw the game in Soldier Field in balmy, moonlight weather and countless others watched it on television.

They saw that the Colts are ready for a fast draw in aiming for their third straight NFL title this season.

Unitas' passing was in mid-season form, and so was his main target—halfback Lenny Moore. For Coach Otto Graham's graduated collegians, virtually all of whom now will report as rookies to NFL camps, the game was a valuable lesson in the caliber of professional football.

Johnny hit Moore for a 3-yard touchdown in the first period; he rifled 3 and 18-yard scoring passes to him in the second, and, in all, connected 17 times in 29 tosses for 237 yards.

Other principal Colt receivers, as usual, were ends Ray Berry and Jim Mutscheller, who combined for 9 catches good for 153 yards.

In addition to adding all extra points, Steve Myhra booted two field goals of 27 yards and another of 38.

IZO MOBBED

Baltimore also got a safety, in the third quarter as George Izo of Notre Dame, who will report to the St. Louis Cardinals, was mobbed behind the goal line.

The Colts scored in each quarter and more or less coasted home after rolling up a 24-0 halftime bulge.

The Colts trimmed the All-Stars 29-0 last year. The pro-champions now have won 17 games in the series while losing 8. There have been two ties.

If a team ever looked good in defeat, it was the All-Stars. Don Meredith of Southern Methodist (Dallas Cowboys) clicked on 8 of 20 passes for 156 yards. End Gail Gogdill of Washington State (Detroit Lions) stood out as a receiver with 5 catches for 64 yards.

The All-Stars were completely overwhelmed on the ground, netting a mere 13 yards.

OWENS 'HAPPY' HIS GREAT RECORD FALLS

CHICAGO (AP)—"I'm happy to see the record broken, and I'm just thankful that it stood up this long," Jesse Owens said today.

Ralph Boston of Tennessee A&I had just broken Owens' 25-year-old world broad jump record with a leap of 26 feet, 11¼ inches, 3¼ inches better than the old mark. "It's about time the record was broken . . . 25 years is a long time," Owens said.

"This shows that progress is being made in track and field. It also shows that youngsters have come along today much better than they did 25 years ago."

STATE SEMI-PRO TOURNEY

Camara Stars In Relief As Hub Nine Nips Santa Rosa

By KARL BARRON

Veteran relief pitcher Art Camara proved himself a plumber's helper last night as he came on in the fifth inning with the bases loaded, no outs, got the Santa Rosa Elks' next three batters out without further damage and went on to hurl the San Anselmo Ongaro Plumbers to a 3-1 victory.

A near capacity crowd at Alber Field in San Rafael watched as the San Anselmans, last Marin County team still in the running in the California Semi-Pro Tournament, eliminated the Sonoma County team from contention.

In last night's second game the defending champion San Jose Nesbit Masonry club squeeked to a 6-5 triumph over Oakland's 88-Cent Stores.

NANCE BLOWS UP

San Anselmo was nursing a 2-0 lead going into the bottom of the fifth when Plumber starter Don Nance got himself into all kinds of trouble. He walked Fred Giannini and Pete Magrini and gave up a one-run single to Gary Vice. Nance then walked Lon Romero to load the bags, so Manager Dom Boccabella called in Camara to save Nance.

Camara responded beautifully. Throwing with deceptive ease, he got the side out on two grounders and a pop fly to the infield to end the threat.

Thereafter Camara was nicked only for single hits in the sixth, seventh and ninth innings. He got in a bit of a jam in the ninth when a hit and an error put the tying runs in scoring position, but Camara got the final out on a pop foul to catcher Lou Haas.

San Anselmo struck pay dirt first in the third frame when two errors put catcher Haas on third, from where he scored on a sacrifice fly to right field.

McGINNIS TRIPLES

The Plumbers made it 2-0 in the fourth when shortstop Don Lauters walked, moved along on Bob DeRosa's sacrifice and scored ahead of second sacker Don McGinnis' triple down the right field line.

After Santa Rosa cut the lead to 2-1 in the fifth, San Anselmo picked up an insurance tally in the eighth when first baseman Tim Reardon led off with a single to left, Ralph Boccabella sacrificed him to second and, after Lauters walked, DeRosa singled to score Reardon.

San Anselmo collected only four hits, but all were timely.

In the nightcap San Jose ace Johnny Oldham struck out 19, but five consecutive walks combined with a passed ball in the fifth inning enabled 88-Cent Stores to tie the count at 3-3.

It was 4-4 going into the ninth when Oakland took a 5-4 lead on Ernie Goldsby's sacrifice fly scoring Rich Littlejohn.

However, the defending champs rallied for the winning runs in their half of the final frame. Manager Don Lopes' single scored Joe Winstead with the winning tally.

Lipton Race Hogs Bay Area Yachting Spotlight Sunday

By ALFRED MATSON

History reveals that Sir Thomas Lipton was far from being a master sailor, yet through his keen interest in the sport, plus a native shrewdness in advertising values, the name Lipton remains in the forefront of yachting news year after year and on a nationwide scope.

There is hardly a sailing center in the country that has not been the recipient of a handsome trophy from that canny gentleman to be raced for annually and into perpetuity.

Back in 1934 San Francisco was duly recognized and the trophy was placed in the trust of the Pacific Inter-Club Yacht Assn. In 1951 the deed of trust was amended, limiting the event to boats of the Hurricane class only and each club in the area was permitted to enter one such designated yacht.

So, come tomorrow, some eight entrants will give their all for Sir Tom And seven of them will attempt to break through the wizardry of the present defender, Hank Easom representing the St. Francis Yacht Club.

Hank will be at the tiller of the Mistral, which is owned by Dr. Nicholas Pedersen, a San Rafael radiologist. The race will start off the St. Francis club at 1 p.m. and will be over the regular channel course.

This afternoon the St. Francis Y.C. started its annual "Midnight Moonlight Maritime Marathon," a race that traverses the bay from the Oakland Bay Bridge up to Carquinez Strait and back to Belvedere.

Should the breezes be light, it could well be an all night hassel. Interestingly enough, the handicaps are reversed with the boat receiving the greatest time allowance the first to start and the first boat to finish is the winner.

THE BELVEDERE Sailing Society is staging its annual invitational regatta and it is open to all boats of the following classes: Blue Jay, El Toro, Flying Dutchman Jr., Lido 14, Shamrock, Snipe, Sun and Wood Pussy.

'Just A Routine Day,' Says Pilot Of X-15

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE (AP)—"It was just a routine day," said Maj. Robert M. White, returning from the longest sky flight ever made by man before.

Maj. White yesterday took the X-15 rocket plane just short of 25 miles into the fringes of space — almost a mile higher than the world's unofficial altitude record.

But White, 36, a man of notable calm, called it just another day's work.

"In test flying," he said, "you don't start picking out special days. That might cause some strain."

Probably the second calmest person at this big test center was the pilot's wife, Doris. While Maj. White was rocketing aloft Doris White was in a beauty parlor, having her hair done.

MAJ. ROBERT M. WHITE
Highest flier

Everyone else who could get outside at this southern California desert base was staring into the blue sky, watching the dot that was the X-15 separate from the bigger dot that was its B-52 mother ship at 45,000 feet.

The X-15, trailing a streaming contrail from its engines, got smaller and smaller, disappeared to the naked eye, then to watchers with binoculars.

Minutes later the black, dartlike X-15 was out of fuel, coasting like an artillery shell at the top of its trajectory. Top of the arc was at 131,000 feet.

White, his body weightless, his eyes feasting on the widest panorama ever seen by man, radioed: "This is really fantastic up here."

Then he was falling. Minutes later the ship reappeared to ground observers, a speck high in the sky. Thunderous sonic booms rocked the ground as the X-15 spiraled down toward Edwards' runways.

At 200 miles an hour, flanked by a jet fighter, White skidded in for a landing. Later he described his day's work:

It was a very deep blue up there, but not exactly like night. There was distinct contrast. Your view encompasses three distinct bands—the earth, the light blue of the sky and very deep blue of the extreme altitude. It was very impressive.

He thinks more powerful engines will lift the X-15 easily to more than twice the altitude he achieved.

Hallinan Says Russia Will Be 'Decent'

Ross Attorney Vincent Hallinan, who leaves tomorrow for Moscow to attend the trial of U-2 pilot Francis Gary Powers, said today he expects the Russians to show a "humane and decent attitude" toward the American pilot.

Hallinan, who received an invitation from the Soviet Legal Society to attend the trial as an observer leaves San Francisco International Airport at 9 a.m. tomorrow. After a stop in Britain he is scheduled to arrive in the Russian capital at 5:30 Tuesday.

The trial is to open Wednesday.

Hallinan said he thought the trial was a "big propaganda piece to show the aggressive value of American air bases surrounding Russia and to arouse world protest against the bases."

He said' 'spy trials" in the United States have been "brutal" and said he felt the "Rosenbergs were murdered."

"I would be astounded if Russia did anything as bad to Powers," he said.

The attorney was recently readmitted to the California Bar Assn. after a suspension resulting from a conviction of income tax violation toured Russia last year, and later wrote a pamphlet on the administration of justice in the Soviet Union.

Television Sets Taken From Home

A burglar broke into the exclusive ranch style home of Clarence A. DeLong, owner of San Rafael's DeLong Chevrolet Co., last night, ransacked a bedroom and helped himself to two television sets.

DeLong's son, Donald, discovered the burglary of the family home at 329 Point San Pedro Road when he returned home at 1:30 a.m. His father is away on a trip.

The thief broke a front window, reached inside, cranked it open and entered the house, reported the Marin County Sheriff's Department.

A television set from the den and another from the master bedroom are the only items young DeLong thought were missing. The son's bedroom was also ransacked.

State Trustees Board For Colleges Formed

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California started searching today for a top educator and administrator to head its state colleges—the world's biggest single educational system.

In a historic step toward independence for the 98-year-old college system, the new State College Board of Trustees organized at the Capitol yesterday.

The members gave top priority to selecting an executive officer to head the 15-college system which enrolls some 50,000 students.

The board named Louis H. Heilbron, San Francisco attorney and president of the Board of Education, as its first chairman.

He in turn picked Thomas Braden, Oceanside publisher and No. 2 man on the boards of trustees and education, to head the Personnel Committee which will pick an executive officer. He called for a meeting within 10 days.

The 1960 master plan for higher education created the board to govern the colleges and give them independence equal to that enjoyed by the University of California, which is governed by its Board of Regents.

The board officially assumes control from the State Board of Education July 1, 1961.

Allen J. Sutherland, San Diego banker and civic leader, was named to head the board's Budget and Finance Committee. Paul Spencer, San Dimas construction firm owner, will head the Organization and Rules Committee.

District Completes Annexation Of Shopping Center

Directors of Las Gallinas Valley District completed annexation of the Northgate Shopping Center in Terra Linda, and signed an agreement with the county for a line crossing the Civic Center at a meeting Thursday night.

The county document implemented a deal made with the Marin County Board of Supervisors last Tuesday and allows the county to place a lagoon, at some future time, over a district easement while the district takes full responsibility for meeting costs if the pipe ever has to be moved.

The directors accepted sewer lines for Terra Linda Units 1 and 2, and accepted a petition from Terra Linda Unit 15, comprising about 10½ acres, requesting annexation and signed by 100 per cent of property owners of the area.

ALMANAC

Today is Saturday, Aug. 13, the 226th day of the year, with 140 more in 1960.

The moon is approaching its last quarter.

The morning stars are Mars and Mercury.

The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1818, Lucy Stone, American social reformer and champion of women's rights, was born.

In 1923, "Yes, We Have No Bananas," was the number one hit song of the nation.

In 1930, Capt. Frank Hawks flew from Los Angeles to New York City in 12 hours, 25 minutes, establishing a new speed record.

In 1936, delegates arrived in Cleveland for the first convention of Father Charles Coughlin's National Union for Social Justice.

In 1955, the Soviet Union announced it would reduce its armed forces by 640,000 men.

Thought for today: German philosopher Arthur Schopenhauer said: "Hatred comes from the heart; contempt from the head; and neither feeling is quite within our control."

Major Problem For Schools: Lack Of Public Interest

One of the major problems facing schools is the lack of interest or involvement of the community in school affairs, Mrs. Edmund Gross said Thursday at the Mill Valley School District board.

Mrs. Gross, president of the Mill Valley Parent-Teacher Assn. Council, summarized the problems from a poll which had been made of the trustees.

Lack of interest by the community leads to a lack of mutual understanding and consequent lack of support, Mrs. Gross said.

Another problem is a need for long-range planning to involve the public and not be confined just to the local school district.

Also, Mrs. Gross added, there is a need for additional classrooms and a need for accurately representing the total educational picture to the public.

The board also:

1. Resolved to request a loan of $200,000 from the County Treasurer to carry the district until tax collections are received in December.

2. Approved payrolls and warrants for $31,942.

3. Set the next meeting of the board for Sept. 1 to discuss recommendations of the policy development committee. There will not be a meeting Aug. 22.

4. Set the Tuesday preceding Monday meetings as the date that agendas shall be closed

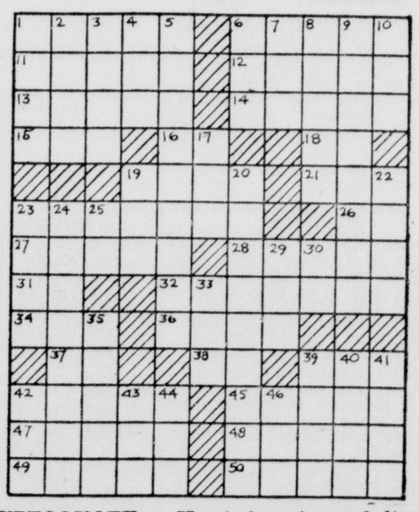
Yesterday's Answer



DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
Is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

A Cryptogram Quotation

UD MPWO MPGO UD UAO OLZ PT LDU E VAPMZPTA UETH—BETUOYLEH.

Yesterday's Cryptoquote: GOD OBLIGETH NO MAN TO MORE THAN HE HATH GIVEN HIM ABILITY TO PERFORM—KORAN.

THE PARENTS' CORNER

By RICHMOND BARBOUR, Ph. D.
Guidance Counsellor

Here's Suggestion On Handling Child Who Dawdles At Dinner

T.M. "Our only child is a girl of 5. She's a healthy, happy little thing. The one trouble we have with her is the way she dawdles at meals. If we let her, she takes two hours to eat her dinner. Breakfast and lunch are almost as bad How can we make her speed up?"

Reply. Tell her in advance what the time limit is. Show her where the hands of the clock will be when the limit is reached. Then serve her small helpings. Don't nag during the meal. When the time is up, remove her plate. Do not let her nibble afterward. Let her stay hungry until the next meal is served. She'll soon catch on.

B.H. "Our boy is 14. Until recently he had a good disposition. When he got mad there was a reason. Now he flares unexpectedly. He seems to resent especially the orders his father gives. Are all teen-age boys this way?"

Reply. Most of them are during their early teens. They feel grown-up. They demand independence. They get mad at anyone who exerts authority over them. You and your spouse should set up reasonable rules to control your boy's conduct. Be sure he understands the rules. Then enforce them consistently. You can't surrender to your son. He still needs your guidance. He'll improve gradually.

K.L. "Our daughter is 12. She is tall and thin, but rather pretty. Her chief trouble is her high pitched, nasal voice. It has a scraping quality which the other children find irritating. They call her bad names because of it. Could she be taught to speak on a lower note?"

Reply. Yes, if she is willing to work at it. Probably a speech therapist could help her most. Ask your school principal to direct you to one. If no therapist is available, go to a competent vocal music teacher. You are wise to be concerned. Voice is especially important to girls during their teen years.

Shot At Windows, 'Don't Know Why'

An 11-year-old Terra Linda boy admitted peppering the windows of a nearby house with a B-B gun Thursday but declared, "I don't know why."

Deputy Sheriff George Barnes found 29 holes in one bedroom window and four holes in another at an unfinished house on Knocknaboul Way in Terra Linda.

The boy's parents said restitution will be made to the owner, P. J. Tarrant of 3577 Redwood Highway, San Rafael. The B-B gun was impounded.

KSFO To Broadcast 49er-Washington Tilt

The 49ers will play their second exhibition game tomorrow at Kezar Stadium. Opponents will be the Washington Redskins in their only 49er meeting this season.

Radio station KFRC will carry the game at 1:10 p.m., for the pre-game show, and at 1:25 p.m. for the game.

Fewer Chiropractors

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The number of chiropractors in California is down slightly this year from the number last, 5,260 to 5,308, according to the Department of Professional and Vocational Standards.

THEME FOR UNITED CRUSADE

Dennis the Menace makes his appearance in Marin and in four other counties of the United Bay Area Crusade — Alameda, Contra Costa, San Francisco and San Mateo — as the $11,250,000 crusade gets under way. The slogan this year is "This Year Everybody Gives." Giving the word to Joey, 5, and Marco, 4, at the St. Francis Day Home in San Francisco, a benefitted agency, is Madeline Zevon.

Span Engineer Against Lights On Surface

A recently proposed plan for lane-direction lights embedded in the surface of the Golden Gate Bridge for direction of motorists received an adverse recommendation by the bridge's traffic engineer yesterday, but the committee in charge decided to keep an open mind for a while.

Meeting with the building and operations committee of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District, Arthur Jenkin said he felt that the system of lights to indicate how traffic would flow was not the best answer.

Another plan which has been considered was one of overhead lights installed in special arches, which would show red or green and thus throw the major share of the lanes open to the direction of heaviest flow toward San Francisco in the morning or toward Marin late in the day.

The committee felt that it lacked information for final decision and held the matter open till it could hear from an expert on the flush-light system.

Education Board Approves Final Contract For Textbooks

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The State Board of Education yesterday approved the final contract for private printing of state textbooks.

It delayed action, however, on a big contract for printing of additional textbooks by the State Printing Department because of a pending lawsuit attacking the private contracts.

The suit alleges the board's action in contracting for private instead of state printing of basic texts is illegal. It was filed as a taxpayers suit by a number of employes of the state print plant.

The board agreed to let the state go ahead with the printing of some 1,080,000 basic and supplemental texts for 7th and 8th grades, but withheld until next month a vote to start state printing of 1,695,000 supplemental texts for grades one through six.

The last Legislature authorized private printing of textbooks by publishers who refused to lease their plates to the state, providing the cost was no more than 10 per cent above what the print would cost in the state plant.

The state privously had done business only with publishers who agreed to lease their plates, but the textbook commission decided some of the other non-lease publishers had better texts.

State Ends Fiscal Year In The Black

SACRAMENTO (UPI)—State Controller Alan Cranston said yesterday the state was $129,252,173 in the black at the end of the 1959-60 fiscal year June 30.

This was nearly double the excess revenue anticipated when the 1960 Legislature beat down Republican attempts to spend some of the cash through tax cuts.

The lawmakers were told then that the surplus would be about 72.9 million dollars, and Gov. Edmund G. Brown ticketed the extra cash to balance the current fiscal year's budget.

Cranston said $34,600,000 of the additional money could be accounted for by the fact that general fund disbursements for 1959-60 amounted to "much less" than had been budgeted.

Marin Peace Meeting To Feature Cuba

"What's Happening in Cuba" will be the topic of discussion at a meeting of the Marin Peace Center at 8 p.m. Monday at 1403 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

The discussion will be led by Kenneth Howard and Frances Steadman, who will review the book, "Cuba, Anatomy of a Revolution" by Leo Huberman and Paul Sweeny, and summarize recent developments in Cuba.

Dupuis Campaigners For Sausalito Named

Eric Barnett and Alexander Imlay will head the campaign of Fred G. Dupuis for Congress in Sausalito's 16 precincts.

Roger F. Morse, county chairman for Dupuis, recently addressed an organizational meeting of the Sausalito Republican Committee for Dupuis.

Mill Valley Girls Help Win Baton Crown

Three Mill Valley girls have returned from Seattle after their team won the national baton twirling championship.

They are Kathy Silva, Carol Long and Claudette Bochino. Miss Silva is captain of the Barbara Mercer Pepperettes, baton twirling group of Napa.

The team of 24 girls participated in the four-day celebration, marching in the parade of champions, and were on hand to flank the airplane of Vice President Richard M. Nixon when he landed on his trip from Hawaii.

The team brought home six trophies. Last year the team won the national championship in Arizona, and it has been the state champion for the last three years.

Miss Silva, 18, was head majorette at Tamalpais High School for the last three years, having been graduated in June, leaving her post to Miss Long, with Miss Bochino assisting.

Miss Silva is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Manuel Silva of Tennessee Valley; Miss Long, 17, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Long of 131 Buena Vista Avenue, and Miss Bochino, 17, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Bochino of 119 Alta Vista Avenue.

Marin Fighting Mosquitos With Mighty 'Swats'

Marin County has found a way to fight the population explosion—the mosquito population, that is.

Two thousand acres of Sonoma County marshland were sprayed last Monday and Tuesday, it was reported to a meeting of the Marin County Mosquito Abatement District Thursday, in an effort to prevent migrations of salt marsh mosquitoes into Marin County.

Marshes along the north shores of San Pablo Bay were treated as well as marshes south of Petaluma.

The board adopted a resolution of appreciation to Antonio G. Sabatini, who retired July 31 after 19 years of service to the district.

Academy's Cadet Corps Rate Defense Honor

San Rafael Military Academy's Cadet Corps has been rated an honor National Defense Cadet Corps unit for the fifth consecutive year, it was announced today.

The unit is inspected annually by an officer from the XV United States Army Corps at the Presidio of San Francisco.

Results of the inspection May 18 were announced in General Orders of the Sixth U.S. Army.

The inspector, Maj. William B. Pierce, commented that the objective of the NDCC program was being accomplished in a "highly satisfactory and efficient manner." A demonstration presented by the Cadet Corps was "impressive and outstanding," as were the military courtesy, discipline, confidence, individual and group apeparance of the unit.

The performance of the cadets indicated a "high state of training, courtesy and discipline," the major said.

Marinites Enter Livestock In California Fair

SACRAMENTO—Six entries from Marin County have been received in the junior livestock division at the California State Fair and Exposition, scheduled for Aug. 31 through Sept. 11.

Entered in the 4-H division from Novato are Sandra Pronzini, seven Herefords; Jon Pronzini, 14 Herefords; William Wright, one market Hereford; Frank Smaw, one Angus, and Joan Carrillo, eight Guernseys.

Terry Tomasin of Nicasio, will show one Hereford.

4-H exhibitors will be competing for over $21,000 in premiums.

Brown Agrees To Session On Needy Aid

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Gov. Brown has agreed to a top-level conference on the Aid to Needy Children program, but said the discussion should cover "the whole question of poverty in California."

Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk proposed to the governor earlier this week that top state officers meet with district attorneys and public assistance officials to discuss administration of the Aid to Needy Children program.

"If we do not have this kind of session soon," Mosk wrote Brown, "I am fearful that the entire ANC program may be jeopardized by constant charges of fraud and immorality, and that the sensational headlines may well disgust and aggravate the taxpayers and through them the legislators."

A conference is a "good idea," said the governor, but he added that you can't take the aid to needy children program out of context with the state's over-all social welfare problems.

California Wines Going To Holland

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—California wines are going to Holland at the request of Dutch Importers who have asked to taste them.

The California Wine Institute said the request came through Farm Bureau representatives in The Netherlands. The Farm Bureau said the Dutch wanted to sample California red, white and rose dinner wines, as well as several appetizer wines and a sparkling wine.

Lagunitas Bridge Users Took Bull By The Horns

We have great admiration for people who are able to "pull themselves up by their boot straps."

Overcoming substantial obstacles by dint of ingenuity and hard effort is as American as bacon and eggs.

But of late the tendency has been to run to the city hall, the courthouse, the state house or the national capitol with our problems looking to government and taxpayers' money for solution.

When some person or group or organization solves its own problem, instead of obtaining government help, we find it refreshing.

And that's the way the bridge builders of Lagunitas struck us.

Their story has been told in the news columns of the Independent-Journal. The folks who get to and from their homes via Mountain View Avenue and Corona Road faced a problem. The old bridge got so rickety it just wasn't safe any longer.

Investigation disclosed the bridge could not qualify as a part of the county road system; no public funds were available for repairing or replacing it.

The only way out, it appeared, was to form an assessment district (another kind of governmental unit) to issue bonds and levy taxes for their redemption.

But the Lagunitas folks are a hardy breed.

They totaled up the costs of attorney's fees, design and supervision costs, interest costs, etc., and decided there must be a better way.

And we would agree that they found a better way.

They located among their number a volunteer superintendent and put in weekends to demolish the old bridge, put in new concrete foundations, bought a retired railroad flatcar (without wheels) and, finally, rented a crane to swing the flat car into position on the foundations.

Presto (almost) and they had a new bridge.

The biggest cash outlay was about $700 for the old flat car.

Several weeks ago dedication day was quite a day on Mountain View Avenue.

And so it should be.

Would that more of us could generate sufficient enthusiasm to put forth the effort to solve our problems in such direct, simple and common sense manner.

Bouquets And Brickbats . . .

A BOUQUET to Brown-Ely Co., the road-building firm, for winning recognition of its "outstanding safety achievement" in promoting safety among its equipment operators.

A BOUQUET also to the writer of the letter-to-the-editor suggesting this safety slogan: "Safety Starts Between The Ears."

A BRICKBAT to the State Repulican Convention for failing to take forthright stands on several of the biggest issues confronting the state, including reapportionment and the water plan.

A BOUQUET to the Catholic Church of the Assumption at Tomales on the occasion of the 100th anniversary of its founding.

BOUQUETS to Herb Crocker and Bill McDevitt for their plans to build a new restaurant in San Rafael providing banquet facilities for 500.

BRICKBATS to all the fuzzy thinkers —in Marin and elsewhere—who cannot express disagreement without impugning the motives of the person with whom they disagree, especially in election year.

A BOUQUET to the person or agency responsible for the landscaping begun in the freeway "islands" at the entrances to San Rafael. It isn't anything to look at just yet, but the instigator deserves "A" for effort.

BRICKBATS to professional planners who are such slaves to established techniques that they can't simply short-cut to accomplish attainable improvements NOW. They want to hold off until all the ritual of the formal planning process has been observed.

WATCHMAN NEEDS WATCHING

A watchman was needed to watch another watchman in Baltimore.

A homeless 65-year-old man was given the job of night guard by a building owner who felt sorry for him.

After getting the man started on his new job at 8 p. m., he dropped back a few hours later to see how he was getting along.

He spent quite a while looking for the new watchman. In fact he's still looking for him —as well as for the $3,000 that disappeared with him.

It is important to place confidence in others, especially those who have met with adversity or reverses. But for their sake as well as your own, show a reasonable caution.

Follow the formula of Christ. Find the strong points in others, but protect them also against their own weaknesses. Blend firmness with kindness. Be trusting without being gullible.

"Him we preach, admonishing every man and teaching every man in all wisdom, that we may present every man perfect in Christ Jesus."

OCT. 5 REFERENDUM

Britain Faces New Crisis In Africa

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG

LONDON (UPI) — South Africa, torn by racial conflict, has confronted the globe-spanning, multi-racial British Commonwealth with what promises to be its biggest crisis yet.

Last week South African Premier Hendrik F. Verwoerd ordered a referendum Oct. 5 to decide whether his fellow-countrymen want a republic.

British officials expect a narrow margin in favor of one.

In that case, South Africa must ask consent of the other Commonwealth nations for her to remain a member under her new constitutional setup.

Other Commonwealth countries—including India, Pakistan, Ceylon and Ghana—have taken the same step and have been given the green light without trouble. But the South African problem is different.

SOUTH AFRICA'S policy of "apartheid" or racial segregation, which sparked bloody rioting earlier this year, has been sharply denounced by most other Commonwealth members—particularly Ghana and Malaya. Nigeria, which becomes an independent Commonwealth member in October, is expected to be equally vehement.

If, as expected, South Africa does vote to become a republic and asks to remain in the Commonwealth, British officials fear that Ghana, Malaya and Nigeria—and perhaps India, Pakiston and Ceylon as well—will turn thumbs down.

British officials admit this would create a situation without parallel in Commonwealth history—one as precedent-shattering as the crisis that flared when India decided in 1947 to become a republic. After deep and lengthy soul-searching that problem was solved by an arrangement under which India, while adopting a republican form of government, agreed to recognize the British sovereign as titular head of the Commonwealth.

TRADITIONALLY, all Commonwealth decisions are the result of collective agreement. No vote ever is taken at a Commonwealth prime ministers' conference.

Theoretically, therefore, refusal of one or two other members to accept a South Arican republic in the Commonwealth would be tantamount to a veto

Britain has not revealed her position on this. But officials have indicated that in a showdown she would seek to avoid a veto or an open split by pressuring the opponents of South African membership simply to abstain.

Britain herself almost certainly would support acceptance of South Africa.

San Rafael's city tax rate was set at $1.10 per $100 of assessed value after two days of equalization board meeting in which only one protest was heard—from Arthur C. Racicot, who claimed that his home at 796 Grand Avenue has greatly decreased in value because the new highway had ruined a once exclusive residential section.

Frustrated Newsman Misses Big Show

By CHAPIN A. DAY

DAY

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. — Frustrated is the newspaperman who must leave the nation's capitol 24 hours before the U.S. Senate opens a session and 48 hours before a presidential press conference. I am now frustrated.

But even on a weekend, Washington, D.C., was throbbing with anticipation of this post-convention congressional session. Everyone urged us to stay.

"The whole cast of characters will be on the Senate floor," they argued. And they certainly are. Both presidential candidates, one vice presidential candidate and the national chairmen of both political parties. Washingtonians were looking for a three ring circus, and they're getting it.

SINCE THE SHOW hadn't started, we found the capital interesting in other ways. Because we were lodged on the Virginia side of the Potomac River, we asked questions about the local politics.

The Byrd family controls the state politically. Head of the clean, which included the late Adm. Richard Byrd the explorer, is Senator Harry Byrd, lifelong conservative. This leads to some peculiar situations for the political parties. Liberals, who find the Byrd Democratic machine too conservative, back Republican candidates. The Democrats usually win anyway but in the northern part of the state in Arlington County, Democrats rebelled successfully and nominated a liberal Democrat for the House of Representatives, similar to our state Assembly. The Byrd machine then backed the Republican candidate and elected him. I guess I'll never understand party politics and what they mean when they say "party responsibility."

OUR GUIDE around the capital was Jack Eisen, now of the Washington Post but former city editor of the I-J. Of course he pointed out to us a touch of Marin County in the U. S. capitol itself.

The bit of Marin is in a huge painting on the west stairway of the House wing. You've probably seen reproductions of the painting many times. Usually called "The Winning Of The West," it was painted in 1862 by Emanuel Seitze. Whether he didn't make his painting wide enough, or if he also wanted to picture the goal of his pioneers who were battling nature and the Indians, I don't know. In any event, he painted a narrow panel clear across the bottom of the 25 or so feet long picture showing the Golden Gate as seen from off shore.

It's a pretty good likeness, too, considering he never was in California. The Farralone Islands are much too far inshore, there is snow on the Contra Costa Hills, and Mt. Diablo looks more like Mt. Tamalpais, but you can pick out Angel Island, Alcatraz (without prison) and the main shoreline, sans Golden Gate Bridge. It's a touch of home.

WE SAW MANY other things too. The Senate Chamber where, until now Vice President Nixon hardly ever presided.

The Standard Oil of New Jersey building where Senator John Kennedy first surrepticiously and later openly operated his campaign office. Where all his brain-trusting was done. Anarchronisms like the Lincoln-Dixie Freight Line, no relation to the underground of the Civil War.

Mt. Vernon is wonderful, but small, and its facilities make you realize "the good old days" weren't all they are cracked up to be. Lincoln's Memorial is a never-to-be-forgotten experience. It's inconceivable such expressive eyes could be carved in stone. Washington's monument is a stately beauty but like the Jefferson Memorial, it doesn't have the punch of Lincoln's.

LINCOLN OF COURSE dominates Springfield. His name is used everywhere although we looked in vain for "Honest Abe Used Cars," we did find "Honest Abe" hamburgs, (they are hamburgs all through the East, not hamburgers).

Lincoln's statue in front of the Illinois capitol shows him as a young lawyer, without beard. But stubby, pudgy Stephen Douglas' statue a short distance behind Lincoln's gave more life to the man.

New Salem, a pioneer town 20 miles from Springfield, where Lincoln lived for about three years, has been reconstructed with amazing realty. At least one of the 20-odd buildings is still the original. Others are rebuilt on old foundations to give an authentic picture of one of the less successful periods in Lincoln's life.

At New Salem, in Washington, and on the grave of his first love, Ann Rutledge, in Petersburg two miles from New Salem, are repeated over and over Lincoln's famed phrase, "with malice toward none, with charity for all."

Oh, if the world would actually learn from its experiences.

10 YEARS AGO

Traffic count by the California Division of Highways showed 21,562 cars passing through San Rafael at the southern boundary on a recent Sunday (only 19,441 went out north-bound), with 12,548 going in on a Monday and 10,298 emerging north-bound.

San Rafael's city council went on record as planning to widen Fourth Street from Tamalpais Avenue to E Street and appropriating $23,000 for new electroliers and conduit system, to which will be added a former $5,000 appropriation for street widening plus $5,000 from Marin County. Total bill figures to $46,563.72.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Ugly Cuts Till Next Ice Age

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I am sure that by now you are all-too-painfully aware that your editorial writer of Aug. 8 goofed The Marin Conservation League, which you so rightly hold in high esteem, WAS among those asking that plans for a freeway to Stinson Beach and Olema be discontinued at this time. Their representative, Dr. Paul Wilson of Kentfield, spoke clearly though briefly in support of the more detailed statements of other groups. I hope that your usual high standards will prompt you to give editorial prominence to your error and to a full elucidation of the Conservation League's stand on this question.

Your editor needed no seventh sense to detect a note of self-interest among some of those who do not want the freeway. Those with a personal interest were quite frank about it. Wasn't HE somewhat less than candid about his own reasons for wanting the freeway? Is he really eager for us to provide this extremely costly new artery just for the benefit of the many more visitors who will be encouraged to race to the Marin coast?

The Stinson Beach road now averages 700 vehicles per day and is capable of handling three times as many IN ITS PRESENT STATE. Are visitors from all over being "kept out" because we don't provide them a freeway? Freeways are for getting places in a hurry. The present road to Stinson Beach is hazardous only if you are in a hurry. But when you are in a hurry you aren't caring very much about the landscape anyway. Why ruin the landscape of our beautiful coast so that people can hurry past it?

It should be developed with present AND FUTURE recreational value for all in mind, and this calls for the broadest possible consideration in connection with such other developments as rapid transit, the projected Point Reyes National Park, and possible obsolescence of the automobile. Once the vast ugly cuts and fills are done we'll be stuck with them until the next Ice Age.

Should Be Room For Co-Existence'

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

And may I congratulate you (re, editorial headed KEEP OUT Sign Should Be Changed To WELCOME).

The attitudes of the "opposition that money spent for roads which increases the value of private property and thereby makes it hard for the public to buy is pretty hard doctrine. It is particularly hard when the money to build the roads comes from taxes on private property to be "improved" and not from the opposition.

I look forward to the chance of discussing sometime the whole theory of public and private relationships which are indirectly involved. There should be room for "co-existence."

Lady Who Spent 1880s Girlhood In Tiburon Gives To Flag Fund

AN INTERESTING human interest yard has developed out of the recent drive to collect funds for erection of a flag and pole atop the Tiburon Boulevard district main fire station.

Mrs. Wellman Topham of Hill Haven, who initiated the drive among property owners associations for funds to complete the project, noted that the very first contributor was from San Anselmo. Further investigation revealed that the project's first donor, Mrs. Edith Whitaker, 29 Medway, San Anselmo, lived as a girl on Tiburon's Main Street and wanted to donate so that an American flag could fly high from the main station.

Mrs. Whitaker, a widow of 95 years, lives alone, does her own cooking, and remembers the early years in Tiburon.

Her father, Charles Manning, in 1889 or 1890, moved his family to a home on stilts (with the current row in Belvedere, I suppose the expression should be put in quotes), at 108 Main Street. It was the second home on the street and while living in it, Mrs. Whitaker's sister attended the "little red school house on the hill." Tiburon School now takes its place.

Mrs. Whitaker lived in San Francisco when the fire of 1906 razed the city and the slept under a tree in San Anselmo for two weeks in the yard of her uncle following the family's flight from the burning city.

Although a San Anselmo resident since 1908, Mrs. Whitaker still has fond memories of Tiburon . . . and they prompted her immediate response to the Independent-Journal's article on the campaign.

TIBURONERS who missed the traditional Tiburon Peninsula Little League Dads game, really missed an afternoon of entertainment. There is nothing like a bunch of eager "dads," bent on winning for the sake of watching wives, teen-age daughters and small-fry little leaguers, to add the spice that makes a game worth-while.

Some of the Tiburon peninsula's more prominent citizens, usually caught only in business suit or in appropriate attire for sailing on a Saturday afternoon, were getting into the spirit of things in a big way on Judge Field at the recent "Dads" game. Political differences, community squabbles, etc., were forgotten for the afternoon and the "game is the thing" spirit prevailed.

(The score was 29 to 9, favoring the major league dads over the minor league dads.)

WHEN THE Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company had finished explaining the intricacies of the direct distance dialing system to interested Tiburon Chamber of Commerce members at a recent meeting, the subject of what the Bell system would do if the Sacramento station was bombed came up. "Reroute through Oakland" came the answer. And just as fast, "What if Oakland, too, were bombed?" came back.

Seems the phone company has the answer, but it is top secret, it was explained. Piped up member Fred C. Hannahs: "Probably some top executive with pigeons in his desk."

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

For a long time, reveals Dr. Kenneth Norris, curator at Marineland, U.S. Navy officials have been studying intensively the habits of porpoises—those huge, playful fish which seem to possess some sort of second sight, and can steer their way unerringly through all sorts of mazes and obstructions in the murky waters far below the ocean surface.

Now the Navy scientists have learned how the porpoises do it. They send out automatic sound impulses — at the rate of 200 a second— which bounce off any object in the way and serve as a sort of super-radar system.

Porpoises can also talk, says Dr. Norris, though we can't figure out yet what they're trying to say. When they start sounding off, adds Dr. Norris, they remind him very strongly of Donald Duck.

To Dr. Norris and his associates, adds Leslie Lieber, the initials V.I.P. obviously mean only "Very Important Porpoises."

'ROUND MARIN

by Don Keown

When Alarm Clock Rings, You Know That Vacation Is Over

THE HARDEST thing about the end of vacation isn't the return to the job—it's the return to the tyranny of he alarm clock.

Its insistent early morning clamor comes as a rude jolt to the nervous system after a couple of weeks of enjoyment of that greatest of all luxuries—the opportunity to sleep as late as you desire.

Gone, too, with the end of vacation, is the leisurely breakfast accompanied by a perusal of the morning papers over a second, or even a third, cup of coffee.

No, it's not being back on the job that's so hard. It's the hustle and bustle of getting there. And that darned alarm clock.

SOMEONE asks: "Why is it that so many programs and meetings in Marin start from 10 minutes to a half hour late?"

We can only report: "Why, indeed?"

It should be noted, however, that the situation is not peculiar to Marin. It seems to be pretty much prevalent across the nation.

The result is that it has become standard practice to plan your arrival some 15 minutes after the scheduled curtain time, secure in the knowledge that it is extremely unlikely that the proceedings will actually get underway any earlier than that.

We think the practice of chronic tardy starts is particularly deplorable at entertainment events for which the patrons have spent their good money—and have every right to expect the activities to begin promptly at the time specified in advertisements and publicity.

Yes, we know that a sizeable portion of the audience would then miss the opening.

But we feel it is hardly fair to expect those who take the announcement that the curtain will go up at 8:30 p.m. at its face value to wait patiently upon those who do not.

Nor should late-comers be permitted to interrupt the enjoyment of those who are already in their seats for the scheduled opening time. The tardy ones should be seated only between scenes or numbers. "The Music Man," while holding forth (and it was a real delight) in San Francisco's Opera House used that practice with success.

If performances were started promptly as scheduled, and if the suggested seating policy for late-comers were adopted, you can bet that one result would be that a larger portion of the audiences would begin showing up on time.

Of course, there will always be some unfortunate enough to be delayed by causes beyond their control. But they will be relatively few.

And there will continue to be those who chronically make the "grand entrance" down the aisle well after the program is underway.

But we have that kind with us now.

Although the curtain scheduled for 8:30 doesn't actually go up until 8:45, they make it a practice not to appear until 8:55 or 9. And when they do make their way to their seats, it is usually with a maximum of chatter, giggling and creaking of chairs.

And you can bet that if the start were delayed until 9 for their special benefit, they would promptly revise their own schedules and begin showing up at 9:15.

Our suggestion is that those in charge of such programs begin catering a bit more to the prompt, and let the dilatory either mend their ways or take the consequences of their flaunting of punctuality.

Some of our "impressarios" already have adopted and adhere to such a practice. We hope others will follow their lead.

Walter Castro—A Self-Made Man

Supervisor Chairman Hard Worker With Ready Grin

By WAT TAKESHITA

Walter Rafael Castro Sr., 65, is a self-made man who peddled papers as a boy to help his family and then later built a successful garage business.

He did it more by hard work and keen business sense than from knowledge gained in formal education.

As chairman of the Marin County Board of Supervisors he has been acclaimed by many and criticized by some. Probably the most celebrated single decision for which he has been both praised and condemned is the "go-ahead" for the new county civic center designed by the late Frank Lloyd Wright.

Castro voted for it on the premise that "you can't go wrong by getting the best for Marin."

The civic center question was one of the big issues of the June election. And it may come up again in 1962 when Castro's term expires. He is not sure yet whether he will run again.

But on this he is definite: "I still think the civic center is one of the greatest things we've done for the county."

IF THERE IS any single reason why he might want to remain on the board of supervisors, it would be to see the completion of the Frank Lloyd Wright-designed structure.

The civic center is designed to accommodate most of the county offices which are now scattered in rented buildings throughout San Rafael. This year alone, the county paid $60,000 in rent. From a purely business standpoint, this is sufficient to justify construction of the civic center, Castro claims.

Castro's quick wit and his ready grin have probably saved many a heated discussion from erupting into a brawl. When participants begin centering more heat than light on a subject, Castro usually cuts in with a side remark that either eases the tension or turns the wrath of both battlers toward him. Either way seems all right with him.

A lifelong resident of San Rafael, Castro's special interest has been the fire department. The story of his fire-fighting career reads like the history of the San Rafael Fire Department itself. He was a volunteer in 1911, when two horses pulled the firewagon from fire to fire. He worked for Deysher and La Fargue garage in San Anselmo where the county's first fire trucks were turned out.

HE HAS BEEN a volunteer fireman since 1911, and held the posts of assistant and acting fire chief. Reluctantly he resigned from the San Rafael Fire Commission two years ago when he moved to 10 Moncada Way, Country Club Heights, just outside the city limits.

Supervisor Castro comes from a long line of California pioneers. His grandfather, Francisco Castro, was a cattleman and sheriff of San Luis Obispo County from 1856 to 1863. His father, David Castro, a roadmaster for Northwestern Pacific, moved to Marin in the 1890s. Walter Castro was born at Pt. Reyes in 1895. He attended San Rafael schools and worked after school hand-cutting papers and selling them. Pay was $2 per week.

He went to night high school where E Street School now stands. That was the last of his formal education. Castro's interests were mechanical. He worked at Cochran's horseshoe shop at Third and C Street then went to Deysher and La Fargue blacksmith-garage in San Anselmo.

When he joined the San Rafael fire volunteers, the fire truck was a buggy drawn by two horses, Tom and Jerry. The fire station was on C Street just a few doors from the present firehouse.

Tom and Jerry were stabled on the first floor, while firemen slept upstairs. When a fire broke out, the men would slide down a pole and clamber on the wagon. Harnesses for the horses were suspended on hangers overhead. As soon as the alarm rang, Tom and Jerry would run under the harnesses. When the harnesses were dropped on them and strapped, the horses were off. They apparently liked fires.

IN 1917, Castro married Frances (Fannie) Cohen, whose parents ran a grocery store in town. Their son, Walter Castro Jr., now runs Castro Motors on Fourth Street, across the street from where Supervisor Castro first went into business on his own. That was in 1922, the era of the Model T.

In 1928 he bought the Depot Garage (now D and S Garage) and went into the towing and body repair business. He kept reinvesting his earnings and built up a business that was valued in six figures by the 1940s.

Then when Gov. Earl Warren appointed him to fill the unexpired term of the late Supervisor William (Pot) Barr in 1950, Castro took on that added responsibility.

"Having lived here so long, I felt I owed it to the community to do something in the way of public service," Castro recalls.

He is probably the only man in Marin who was appointed to a supervisor seat by two governors. In 1953 Gov. Goodwin J. Knight appointed him to succeed the late George Whiteley as supervisor. In 1954, Castro won his first election, and he was re-elected in 1958. He took over as chairman when James Kehoe resigned more than five years ago.

In 1955, Castro sold his garage to D and S, and turned over his car agency to his son.

OFFICIALLY, HE is now "semi-retired," but you'd never know it from the pace he sets, scurrying around the courthouse on county business, presiding over budget sessions, attending night meetings and official functions throughout the county. Throughout it all, he retains a twinkle in his eyes, and an alert face that's ready to break into a grin at any moment.

He walks briskly, with only a trace of a limp from an old injury he suffered back in 1914. "A fellow was bringing me home from San Anselmo one day and hit a vegetable truck drawn by horses. It killed the horses, poor things, but not me. I was thrown 100 feet on the road."

Dr. Harry Hund of San Rafael happened to come by just at that time and gave Castro first aid. The leg injury suffered in that accident still bothers him to this day.

Another narrow escape he

EVEN THE USUALLY reliable Model T stalled occasionally. And when it did, this tow truck went forth from Walter Castro's garage to aid the troubled motorist. Castro's business thrived with the growth of San Rafael.

recalls took place about 1923 when his 1919 Buick hit a boxcar which was being switched at night without lights at Fourth Street and Tamalpais Avenue. As he lay alongside the track, the whole car passed overhead, and the wheels sheared off a part of his overcoat. The impacts sent the Buick hurtling toward him. One more turn of the wheel and the broken spokes would have dug into him, he recalls.

One of his accomplishments as a supervisor was to set up the county garage, a pet project. Through the pooling of equipment and service that resulted, he saw savings for the county.

HE BACKED THE creation of the Department of Public Works, county administrator, county counsel, public defender, central purchasing, personnel department and data processing with IBM equipment.

The new civic center was the biggest project undertaken during his tenure. Others have included the courthouse annex, improvements at juvenile hall, sheriff's office remodeling, a school for crippled children, and remodeling the county hospital and farm.

For an old-time Marin resident, he is regarded as a man with young ideas. He is amenable to change if convinced the change is for the good.

As chairman or as an arbiter during hot debates, he coaxes and humors the combatants into agreement rather than knocking their heads together.

He believes in modern and efficient methods, like electronic computers instead of hand labor. But as a man, he will forever remain folksy and human.

That's Walter Castro's nature.

WALTER CASTRO is particularly proud of his many years of service in the San Rafael Fire Department. In 1910, about the time he joined the volunteers, the department was truly a "horse and buggy" operation, with the "fire truck" propelled by two horse powers—names, Tom and Jerry.

MARIN'S FIRST mechanized fire trucks were turned out at this San Anselmo garage—Deysher and LaFargue—where Walter Castro was employed almost half a century ago. Marin's firefighting forces were begining to go modern. Castro is the tallest man in the photo.

IN WARTIME 1942 San Rafael's "smoke-eaters" posed proudly in front of a new firehouse. Volunteers and paid firemen alike wore snappy headgear. And a new fire truck was still another point of pride with the firemen. (Photo by Harry M. Williams)

The Little Church In Tomales

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

In ox carts and on horseback, in buckboards, buggies, wagons and small boats, parishioners came to Tomales for the dedication of the little white Catholic house of worship, the Church of the Assumption, 100 years ago.

Tomorrow, on the eve of the Feast of the Assumption, the 100th anniversary of the church will be observed in the original building.

Rev. Aldo Grasso, O.S.J., the pastor, announces that the centennial observance will take place at a high mass at 10 a. m. Monsignor John McGarr of San Anselmo will be the representative of the Archdiocese of San Francisco. And the message of Archbishop John J. Mitty will be read by the Rev. Norton J. Herold, S.J., member of a pioneer Tomales family. The Church of the Assumption choir will sing at the mass.

Played during the religious rites will be the organ of which Father Grasso is so proud. It came from the Catholic church in Sausalito.

Unveiled over the altar will be a beautiful Italian painting of the Blessed Virgin being taken into heaven by the angels (the assumption). The work has just been completed by Luigi Guglielmino, an artist in the Reffo School in Piedmont, Italy. Father Grasso describes this as "a modern mystical school."

THE ARTIST worked for many months on his masterpiece. Reporting regularly on his progress was Father Grasso's brother, a priest in Italy. The painting is a gift to the Church of Assumption by the Louis Terza family of Fallon.

Guests of honor at the centennial will be Mrs. Evelyn Martin of Petaluma, Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Healy Jr. of Santa Rosa and Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. Ellis of Sacramento.

Archbishop Joseph Alemany officated at the dedication in 1860 in the presence of farmers and landholders, mostly of Irish ancestry, and their families. A few Indians were in the congregation. They had come from the settlement along the upper reaches of Tomales Bay.

The land for the church on the rise of a hill on the main street of Tomales had been donated by John Keys, who, the year the church was dedicated, married a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Miller, also devout Catholics, whose large ranch was opposite St. Vincent's School near San Rafael.

Mr. Keys, born in Fermanagh, Ireland, in 1824, had come to San Francisco in 1849 and established a commission trade. The following year he went to Bodega. In partnership with Alexander Noble, he planted potatoes. They had a bumper yield in the fall and Keys bought a small schooner, the Spray, to carry the crop to the San Francisco market. On the return trip Keys sailed the Spray up Tomales Bay to lay claim to a large piece of land at its head. The land was the lower part of Tomales and the hill on which the Catholic Church was built, which the pioneer called Keysport. He and Noble built a small house and went into ranching.

Keys had ambitious plans and laid out an embarcadero which was to include a hotel, store and shops. He and Noble soon dissolved their partnership and Keys put into operation several schooners to carry his produce and that of other early settlers to market and bring back stock for the store.

KEYS ENTERED into another short-lived partnership with Warren Dutton, who owned the upper part of Tomales. Dutton built a stone store and a number of other buildings, including a large home just a short distance up the street from the Catholic Church. He also owned a number of schooners which docked at Ocean Roar on Tomales Bay. A bitter rivalry existed between Keys and Dutton, but business boomed in both Lower and Upper towns.

Rev. Louis Rossi, a French-Italian, was appointed the first pastor of the Tomales Parish, which at that time included not only Tomales but Bodega, Occidental, Freestone, Monte Rio, Sebastopol, Santa Rosa and Healdsburg. Most of these were operated as missions of Tomales. Father Rossi traveled by horseback over rough trails to administer the last rites of the church to the dying.

Young, zealous Father Rossi had no church or house when he came to the Tomales Parish. He made his home with the hospitable Irish pioneer, Jasper O'Farrell, in Freestone, midway between Bodega and Tomales. In Tomales he said mass at the Clark home. Mrs. Clark, the first white woman in the community, had a large family. Most of the children, in turn, reared big families. And in later years there was hardly a person in the area who, directly or indirectly, was not related to the Clark clan.

In Bodega Father Rossi sometimes said mass at the hotel or in the schoolhouse and, when these were not available, in a blacksmith shop.

AT ONCE THE young pastor set about building a church on the property Keys had provided. At the contract price of $4,000 Peter Morrissey and Andrew Fisher constructed the small and simply designed church of redwood which was painted white. First baby baptized in the church was Otto Gericke. As there was no Catholic cemetery the first burials were on the church property. However, Paul Murphy soon donated land for the cemetery and additions were made to it later.

With the church building an accomplished fact, Father Rossi turned his attention to

"WHY DO SPOTS STAY IN WASH-N-WEAR?"

It is natural to think that Wash-n-Wear fabrics have a coating that causes all soil to roll off easily in washing. That isn't so. Oily stains will penetrate the fibers. Then old age or heat from an iron used to "touch up" Wash-n-Wear can set a grease stain so that it cannot be removed. Of course, any garment can be soiled and usually is soiled, after a few wearings, even though it does not appear to be. But if Wash-n-Wear has spots, get the garment to your drycleaner before the spots are too old or before you touch them with a hot iron.

Many customers complain about spots on Wash-n-Wear fabrics. When the soil mars the garment, the customer rinses off the surface dirt. The spot apparently disappears. However, resins, permanent sizings and other treatments common to Wash-n-Wear fabrics have poor resistance to oily stains. When you hand-wash the fabric or use a limited machine washing, the grease stays in. The spot becomes "set" from aging or ironing. Eventually the set stain becomes noticeable. You may think it is new. The chances are it is old stain which you thought you had removed.

So spots stay in Wash-n-Wear because they never have been removed entirely. Such removal requires the skill of a professional with his many implements and methods. Get your spotted Wash-n-Wear to your cleaner as soon as possible and you'll have longer, pleasureful service from it.

Century-Old Church Still Serves Congregation

Continued from Page M-7. construction of a rectory. The builders were the same ones who had the church contract, and the frame house of four rooms was built at the cost of $1,000.

Father Rossi then built a $3,000 church in Bodega. It was on land donated by Jasper O'Farrell and it was dedicated on June 2, 1862, by Archbishop Alemany and called St. Theresa's in honor of the mother of O'Farrell.

The young priest overtaxed his strength constantly visiting his parishioners, riding in storms and heavy rains, to say mass in various parts of his far flung parish. His health failed, and in October 19, 1862, he returned to his native Italy.

After this there was a rapid succession of pastors; Revs. Thomas Fagan, Peter Bermingham, Anthony Delmas, William J. Slattery, Francis Kelly, Andrew Cullen, Thomas Cushing, James Vereker, and Edward Slevin.

THIS TAKES us to 1892 when Rev. John Rogers became pastor. Tomales was a thriving community. Prosperous dairy ranches dotted the hillsides and valleys. The ranchers came into the town once or twice a week to get supplies, the women bought drygoods at a bit or more a yard, the men gathered at the post office to talk politics. The cheese factory was working overtime. Anvils rang merrily in the blacksmith shops and passengers from the train stopped to chat and tell what they had seen in the "city."

Water transportation had given way to the railroad. No longer did schooners arrive at Keys' embarcadero or Ocean Road. Nature had taken over. Erosion of the hills had filled the upper part of the bay with silt.

The main part of the town was now the upper section which had been owned by Dutton. Hotels did a thriving business. "Drummers," as traveling salesmen were called, were frequent guests, and the bars were never empty until the lights were out. At one time there were 11 saloons on the main street.

Father Rogers soon learned that not all the people of the community "worked six days a week and went to church on Sunday." On Saturday nights and Sundays the saloons did their biggest business. The town by then had survived two major disasters.

First blow to Tomales was the fire of 1877 when a block of the upper town was destroyed. The lack of fire-fighting equipment and the inadequate water supply were responsible for the big property losses of this and subsequent fires. The rebuilding was commenced at once. In 1891 the buildings in the east section of Tomales burned. The residents were bravely rebuilding when Father Rogers arrived.

FATHER ROGERS, who was born in Wexford, Ireland, was educated and ordained in the Catholic priesthood in Dublin. He came to the United States in 1887 and for four years was assistant pastor at the Church of the Holy Cross in San Francisco before he was sent to Tomales.

Father Rogers was full of enthusiasm and a tireless worker. He increased the number of parishioners to such an extent that an assistant was required. This meant that a new rectory had to be built. The result was an eight-room house, costing $4,000, constructed in 1893. Thomas A. Welch was the architect.

Two non-Catholics, John and Barbara Brown, donated the land for the Catholic Church in Sebastopol which was built in 1898 at a cost of $7,500. Father Rogers was responsible for the building of this edifice which was dedicated by Archbishop Patrick Riordan.

Also in the building program was the church at Marshall, the fishing village on Tomales Bay. It was built on a hill overlooking the bay in 1902 at a cost of $2,000. The property was donated by Mrs. Jane Marshall.

Father Rogers was also instrumental in having a small church built in Occidental in 1903. The land was donated by Joseph and Julia Asti. Frank Shea was the architect. Lawrence Nelas constructed the building at a cost of $3,000.

By far the most ambitious project of Father Rogers was the new church at Tomales. On a lot next to the small white church he built what was acclaimed by San Francisco newspapers as "the most beautiful house of worship in the state." Of cruciform design, it was constructed entirely of stone, blue and buff. It was 60 by 90 feet and cost $25,000.

THE HIGH white marble altar was imported from Italy. Also of white carved marble were the side altars. The communion rail, too, was of white marble, with its columns of California onyx. The sanctuary gates of bronze were heavily plated with silver. The solid silver sanctuary lamp hung from a stone arch. The stained glass windows were all made in Munich, Germany. There were three rose windows, a large one in the chancel and two transept windows. The niches for the Stations of the Cross had gold mosaic backgrounds.

The dedication of the new Church of the Assumption in June of 1901 was an impressive ceremony at which Archbishop Riordan officiated. As the perfume floated from the swinging censors, a procession of priests moved slowly down the aisle and the archbishop blessed the altars and the walls.

Proudly seated in one of the front pews was Mrs. Clark, 98, at whose home the first mass had been said in the Tomales Parish. She and other parishioners had made substantial donations to the new church.

The little white church became a place for meetings of church groups and catechism classes.

Father Rogers was transferred from the Tomales Parish in 1903 and made a monsignor in recognition of his outstanding work.

Rev. Joseph M. Gleason had been the pastor for three years when a terrible disaster struck California. On April 18, 1906, the earth gave out an awful roar and began a terrible shaking. And in the awful earthquake which destroyed San Francisco, the beautiful stone church in Tomales went down in a mass of rubble. It was a total loss, as were the stone store built by Warren Dutton and the brick bank building.

Father Gleason was called to the Marshall ranch where three were killed when a stone house collapsed, crushing the sleeping occupants.

In the Tomales church records in shaky handwriting is this notation, dated April 18, 1906, "Most terrible earthquake. Stone church entirely destroyed. Dwelling wrecked. Old frame church thrown off foundation but remediable." On May 3 "alternating minor shakes" were recorded.

FATHER GLEASON left in May, after making arrangements for the repair of the old church and the rectory. He was in the East several months collecting money for the work. During his absence Rev. Patrick Callopy was acting pastor. Father Gleason returned to resume his duties and say mass in the little white church until November of 1909.

For many years Tomales presented a sad appearance. It had been ravaged by two more fires. The buildings were not rebuilt and the town, which had been second in population in the county to San Rafael, returned to the status of a village but without the vigor of its youth.

The train whistles were silent, the railroad no longer in operation. Villagers and ranchers drove away to do their shopping in nearby cities.

But the Catholic Church, itself, took a new lease on life when Father Grasso became its pastor. Born in Asti, Italy, one of a family of 10 children, he says, "I know what it is to be poor."

During World War II, he served with the Italian underground behind the German lines. It was a risky business. If he had been caught by the Germans he would have been killed. He tells of hiding a group of escaping Americans in a huge wine vat, then leading them to safety.

In 1948 Father Grasso came to the United States and for three years was chaplain at the San Diego County General Hospital. In 1956 he was appointed pastor at Tomales. When I complimented him on his fine command of the English language, he said he had studied English literature and then was reading American and English classics.

Father Grasso approached his Tomales assignment with zest. He visited with the Italian-Americans on the ranches, who had fallen away from the faith, and brought them back into the church. He organized catechism classes for the youngsters and drafted members of the Altar Society as a "spiritual FBI" to keep him informed of the sick who needed religious ministrations.

ANOTHER PRIEST of his order, Oblates of St. Joseph, from the nearby novitiate, helps by saying mass on Sundays at the Bodega and Marshall missions. When he first came to Tomales, Father Grasso said mass there, too.

The little white church has been transformed into a gem by Father Grasso. It gleams outside and in. The exterior and interior have been newly painted. It had none of that musty odor associated with old buildings.

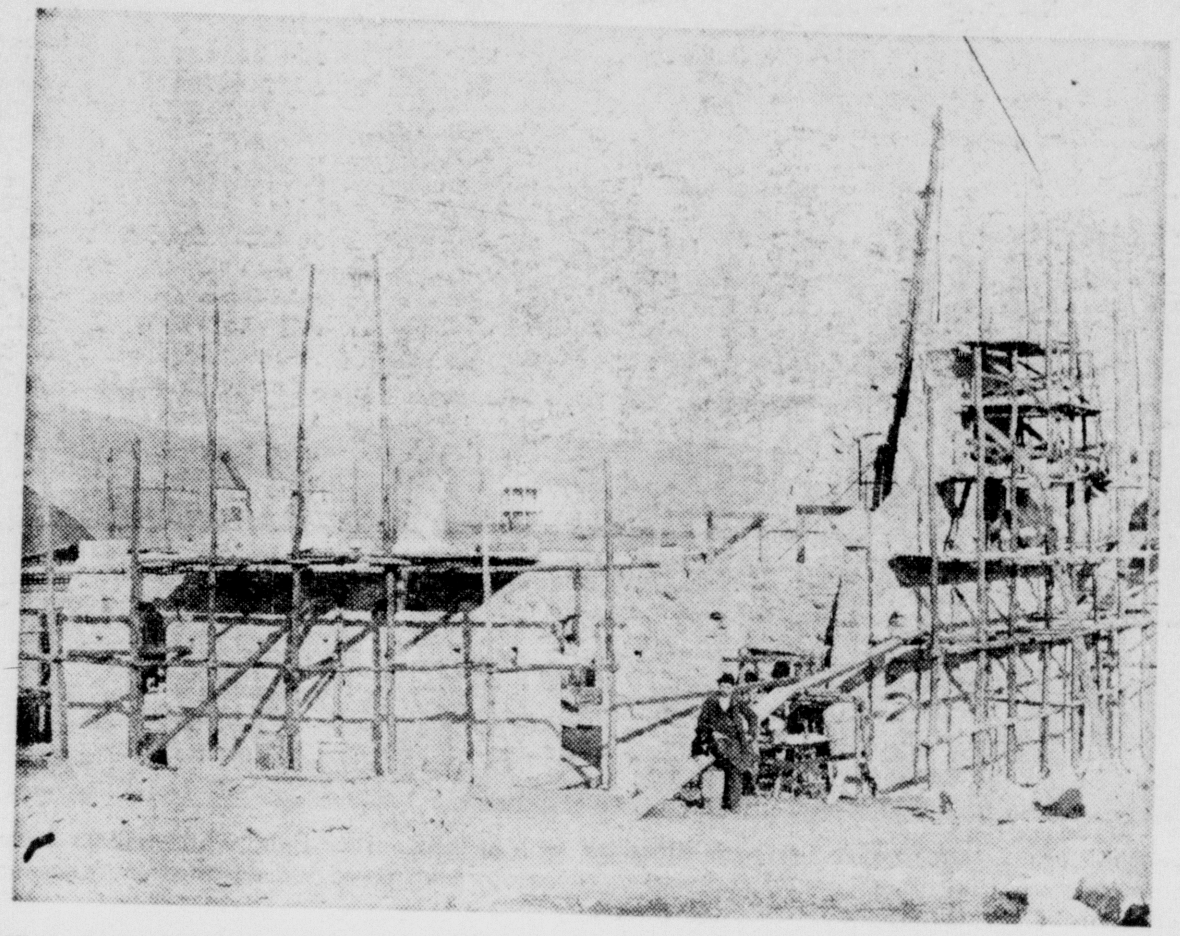
The threshold is a marble slab from the stone church.

"We do with what we have," Father Grasso explains simply. On the light walls besides the Stations of the Cross are liturgical symbols like you see in the catacombs in Rome — crossed swords over a cross (the Christian ready to fight for his Faith) and two deer drinking (souls thirsty for grace). The pews, designed by the priest, are of light oak and have curved backs. The kneelers are heavily padded. The pastor has made certain his congregation will be comfortable.

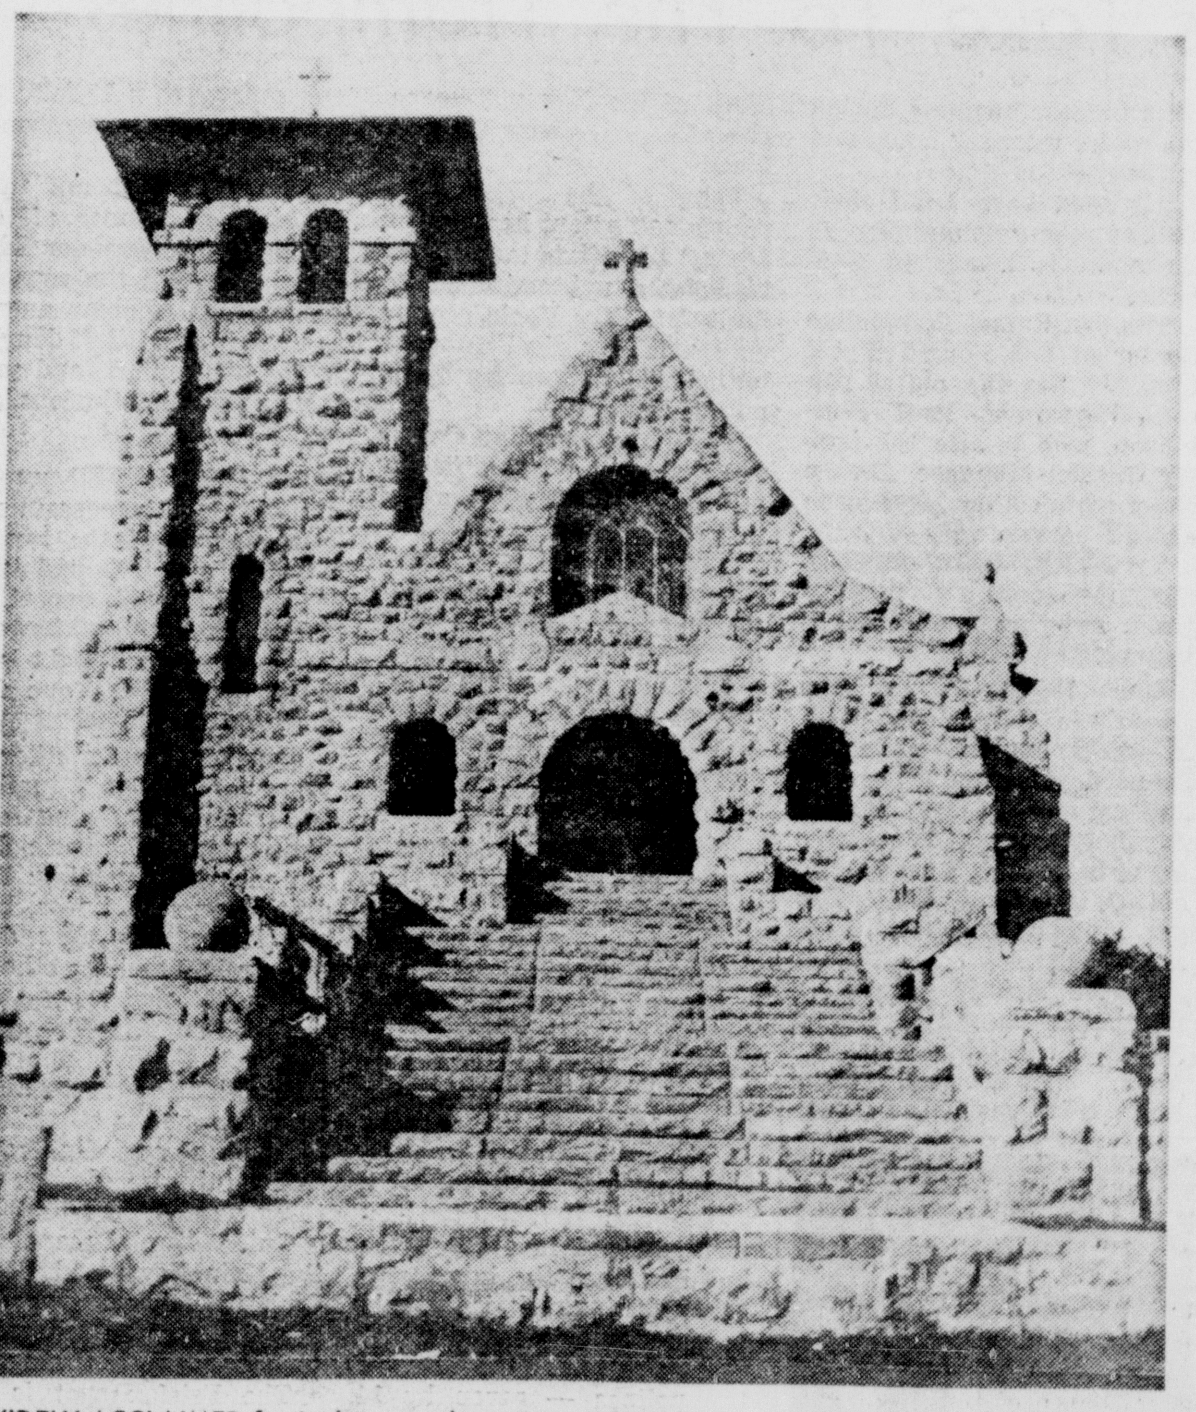
The altar, with its gilt bas relief of the Last Supper, is the original. The crucifix on the altar is black wood with a white figure of Christ, splotched with blood from His wounds. Father Grasso said the crucifix was broken to pieces when it was given to him and it was repaired and painted by a member of his congregation.

AS WE WALKED down the church steps, Father Grasso pointed to where the stone church had stood. The ruins were gone and the priest said, "We let the high school use the space for a tennis court." He also said that there was an ample water supply for use of the church and rectory, and the school was provided with a water supply by the church.

I admired a white statue of the Madonna and Child on the grounds in front of the church. It was a relic from the stone edifice. The arms of the Child had been broken in the earthquake and the little figure seemed to plead: "I have no hands but yours."



THE "NEW" STONE church was under construction when this rear view of that edifice was taken. In the background can be seen the public school which was built in 1869 on land given by Warren Dutton. Originally a one-room school, another story had been added.



WIDELY ACCLAIMED for its beauty, the new stone Church of the Assumption which was dedicated in 1901 served the congregation until it was leveled by the earthquake of 1906. The older white frame church survived the quake. And the Catholic services were returned to that historic building which will be the scene of tomorrow's centennial observance rites. THINGS ARE BOUNCING

Marinites Of All Ages Take To The Trampolines

By DIANA BRUCE

The trampoline craze moved into Marin this spring. Just how well it will survive the August-September heat is problematical.

The Bon Air Trampoline Center in Greenbrae, where cool breezes waft over the Corte Madera marshlands, has the advantage weather-wise

But up in Novato at a similar establishment behind the Nave Shopping Center, manager Ray Augusto agreed that jumping up and down in extreme heat might be enough to give one heat prostration.

All four Marin centers — Greenbrae, Novato, San Rafael and Fairfax — register their biggest business during the cooler morning hours and in the evening.

All ages have tried their skill at rebound tumbling, as the sport is known to gymnasts.

The San Rafael Trampoline Center at 836 Fourth Street probably has the oldest patron—83-year-old Paul Hawkinson, who is also the janitor there. Manager Dean Moon admits that Hawkinson doesn't bounce very high.

TWO-YEAR-OLD children, clutching onto a parents' hand, have as much fun as bouncing on a bed.

One 12-year-old at the Greenbrae center even tried to eat popcorn while he bounced. (He finally gave up and sat on the trampoline.) Another youngster kept glancing at his mother's car parked outside the tranmpoline pit to get audience reaction to his somersaults.

To be strictly correct, a trampoline should be called "rebound tumbling equipment." The word "trampoline" is a registered trademark of the Nissen Trampoline Co. of Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

Fame of the Nissen company's equipment has worked against its efforts to keep the tradename unbesmirched by faulty use. The Marin centers equipped by a rival company blithely call themselves "trampoline centers."

The Nave Shopping Center establishment, which officially opened on May 8, was the first in Marin County

It was the first and, so far, the only one to have a damage suit filed against it. Fourteen-year-old Kenneth Marder of Novato claims a trampoline "threw him" and that as a result, he lost some teeth. His suit asking $10,000 damages was filed June 29.

NOVATO manager Augusto spoke up in behalf of the trampoline.

"It just sits there," he said. "You have to do something."

Safety precautions differ slightly at the four trampoline centers. Bare feet are permissible at three, but at the San Rafael center either socks or gymnastic slippers must be worn.

The San Rafael establishment, housed in a cavernous building once the home of a roller skating rink, is the only indoor trampoline center.

It also has the largest trampolines — seven by 14 feet. The others have six by 12 foot models.

The Greenbrae Center has the most novel safety device—a safety belt attached by rope and pulleys to a 17-foot high steel frame about one trampoline.

As a novice rebound tumbler starts to bounce off center, manager-instructor Edwin Couch can pull the rope and the student tumbler encased in a safety belt is left dangling in the air, unhurt, and saved from a possible injurious landing.

AN UNCOUNTED number of twists and somersaults, or combinations of the two are possible, as a rebound tumbler becomes more expert.

The first thing, however that a novice is taught is the front drop where one flops down on his stomach.

Manager Couch, after six years of rebound tumbling and six years of diving behind him, listed eight basic drops in rebound tumbling: Front drop, feet, seat, knees, hands and knees, two back drops, one straight and the other not so straight, and a hand drop.

The Bon Air Trampoline Center is the only one where instruction is given, although managers at the others admit to giving out free advice "when they're doing something wrong."

Guido Monti, manager of the Main Town and Country Club in Fairfax, says divers use the resort's trampolines to improve their timing.

The Fairfax spot is open from noon to 6 p.m. daily. The other three centers devoted entirely to trampolines are open from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m seven days a week.

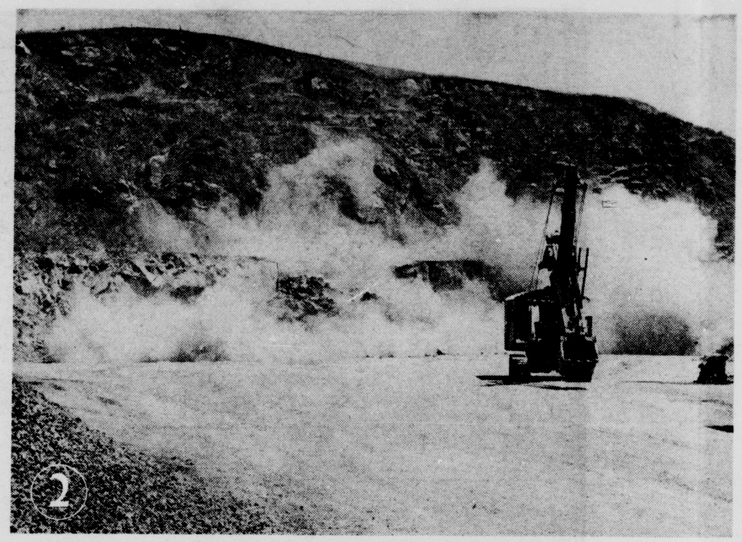
FIRST STEP in the production of aggregate at the Hutchinson Co. in Greenbrae is the drilling of holes for dynamite at the hard rock face of the company's quarry behind the mill. The driller in foreground is Ike Williamson.



A MUFFLED ROAR comes from a 50-foot ledge as 10,000 tons of blue rock are shattered in a single blast. The quarry face, on the hill behind the mill, is being converted from a single high face one to one with 50-foot high benches, for safety and ease of mining.

RAW MATERIAL for aggregate production lies in a jumble after blasting. Inspecting the rock is E. W. Brown, vice president of Hutchinson Co. Despite use of explosives, company has enviable record of safety.

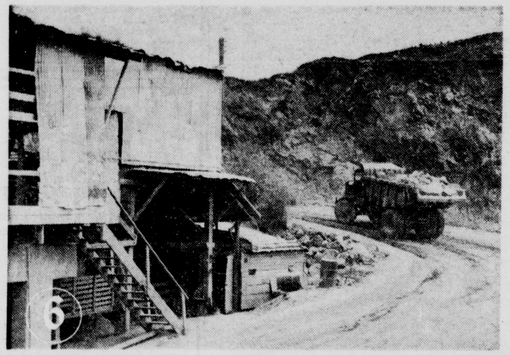
Rock For The Roads You Drive On And Homes You Live In



THE TRUCK moves from the quarry to the primary jaw crusher. These huge trucks used in mine haulage are constructed with no springing on the rear wheels, to allow maximum loading ability.

DANNY CISMICH dumps a load of rock into the jaw crusher after the short haul from the quarry. Big Autocar vehicles were first trucks used at the quarry after closing of little railroad in 1930's. One is being preserved by the company.

Drive a mile of Marin highway, build a patio slab, pour a foundation, and chances are you are using some of the products of the big Hutchinson Co. quarry at Greenbrae.

The quarry operation, with the big mill with its sagging face, was constructed in 1924 by the Hutchinson company of Oakland. The site of the quarry was a former dairy farm.

Today the small mining railroad from the quarry to the mill is gone and in its place are huge 15-ton capacity trucks. Yearly production of aggregate at the plant now tops 250,000 tons. The other product, asphalt mix, totals about 90,000 tons per year.

L. A. (Al) Capp, superintendent of the plant, assures visitors that the sag in the tall mill has no effect on the strength of the building.

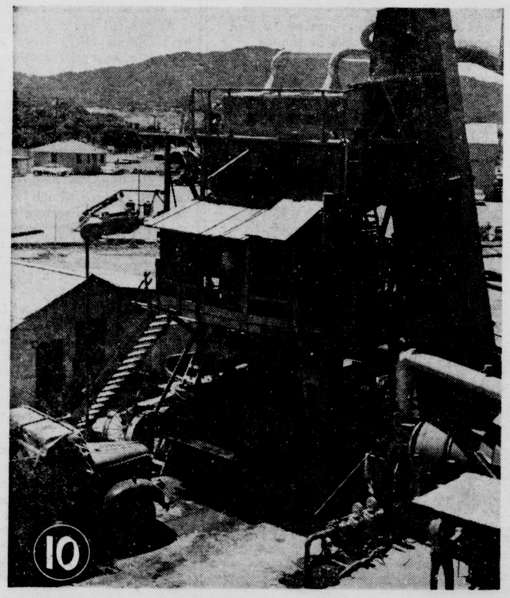
Clapp said the weight and vibration of the storage bins and machinery caused the center to settle. Later the company poured a solid reinforced cement floor to the building, thus "freezing" the sag.

The Greenbrae operation employs 35 men. General foreman is Ernest Bray.

Products are shipped out mainly by truck. Rail shipments are largely ballast for the Northwestern Pacific Railroad. The barges, which used to haul out materials, now are used to haul in sand.

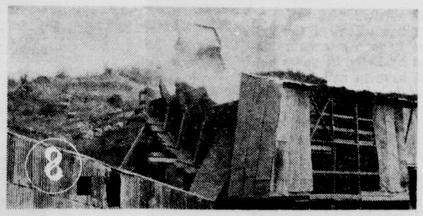
CRUSHER FEEDER Andrew Striplin tends the secondary crusher where rocks too large for use after the primary crushing are battered to smaller size.

BIG 15-TON capacity Euclid off-highway truck accepts a load of rock at the quarry for transportation to the primary crusher at the mill. Rock haulage was done up to 1930's by little railroad. Most shipments of Hutchinson products are now by truck, too.

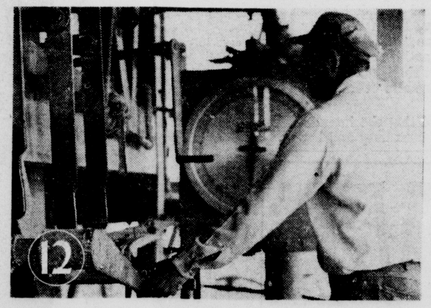


THE HUTCHINSON asphalt mixing plant is located near the mill. The company produces about 90,000 tons of hot asphalt a year for highways and roadway uses in Marin. Mix with three-eighth inch aggregate sells for $6.10 per ton.

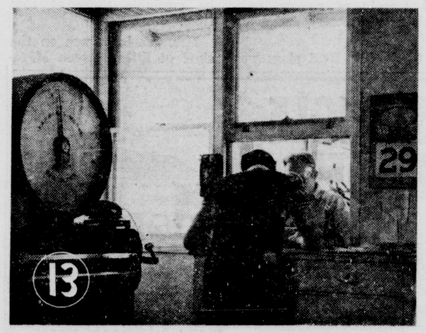
TENDING the asphalt plant are, left, Nels Miller, engineer, and right, George Henderson, fireman. Henderson tends the natural gas furnace which heats the oil and rock mixture. The Hutchinson gas bill last year was about $15,000.



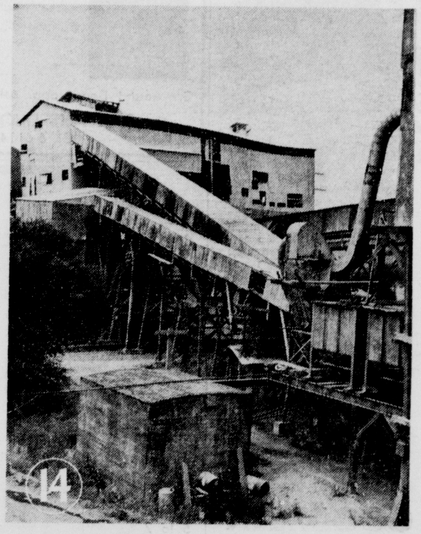
THE ROCK falls into the jaw smasher where it is smashed into rocks up to 8 by 10-inch in size. The company is considering a plan to scientifically wet the rock to virtually eliminate dust.



FLOW OF ASPHALT at top of mixer is managed by Alanzo Thrailkill, box man. The box man weighs and controls the amounts of the various sizes of mix.



TRUCK SCALES at the Hutchinson plant weigh outgoing trucks loaded with rock or asphalt. Operator of the scale is Robert Melbourne. The company produced 250,000 tons of rock aggregate last year.



HUTCHINSON MILL is storage area for various sizes of aggregate. Gentle sag in building occurred after construction in 1924. Later a solid cement floor was put in completely stabilizing the structure, including the sag. Sides are two by 12 lumber laid flat. (Photos by Steve Allen)

She Found Time To Write Her Book

By DON KEOWN

It was three years ago that Sandol Stoddard Warburg of Belvedere wrote her first book.

At that time her three sons, Andy, Peter and Gerry, were ages 6, 5, and 3, respectively.

How does a mother of three lively boys all in the age bracket demanding maximum parental attention and care find time for such pursuits as writing?

Mrs. Warburg admits that much of the writing was accomplished "in the middle of the night" after her brood had retired.

But she adds: "I feel that a mother can always find time for writing if she really wants to do so."

THAT BOOK written three years ago is scheduled for publication on Aug. 24 by Little, Brown and Co. as an Atlantic Monthly Press Book.

Entitled "The Thinking Book," it is aimed at young children. But it is a most unusual children's book.

The text represents the musings of a child—in language familiar and understandable to the tots.

Mrs. Warburg is quick to share the credit for the book with two other persons. First, she has high praise for her editor, Emilie Warren McLeod. While working together on "The Thinking Book," the two women became fast friends.

Mrs. Warburg also has warm commendation for her illustrator, Ivan Chermayeff.

Chermayeff is a well-known eastern artist residing in New York.

In illustrating Mrs. Warburg's book, he has made generous use of bright, splashy colors, certain to attract the attention and whet the interest of young readers.

MRS. WARBURG admits that "The Thinking Book," her first book, was not accepted by the first publisher to whom it was submitted. But now that she has cleared that high initial hurdle, additional success has come rapidly.

A second book for small children has already been accepted by Little, Brown and Co. for future publication.

She is hoping that Chermayeff will again be her illustrator. "I think he's the best in the business," she says.

Right now she is engaged in a more formidable undertaking—the translation of a work in Middle English for older children. After having already been on this project for a year and a half, she feels that at least another year of work still lies ahead before its completion is reached.

Neither Mrs. Warburg nor her architect husband, Felix, are natives of California. He was born in Austria. She is an Eastern girl.

She says that "I have always been writing."

Her earlier efforts consisted largely of poetry, published only locally, and some plays.

ONE OF HER plays was performed on radio in Philadelphia. Others have had readings.

But "The Thinking Book" represents her first taste of the joys of publication.

And, she says, in children's books she feels she has found the field for which she is best fitted and which provides her with the greatest personal satisfaction.

While "The Thinking Book" is not scheduled for publication until Aug. 24, she will not have to wait that long for the first fruits of her accomplishment. Leonard Lind's Contemporary General Store in Tiburon has scheduled a champagne autograph party honoring Mrs. Warburg for this coming Friday, 5 to 7 p.m. Advance copies of the book will be available there at that time.

Mrs. Warburg was on the staff of Ellery Queen Magazine before coming West eight years ago.

The Warburgs had traveled through Marin on their honeymoon. "We thought the countryside so lovely that we determined to return here and make our home," she says.

THE WARBURGS reside at 61 Peninsula Road on the Belvedere Lagoon in a home designed by Felix. "I guess you would have to call it a Warburg-style house," his Mrs. says.

Even with her housekeeping, her job of caring for her husband and three sons, and her writing, Mrs. Warburg has found time to complete her requirements for a college degree by taking work at San Francisco State College. "The English department there is wonderful," she says.

The degree was awarded, however, by Bryn Mawr which she had attended earlier.

"I've been a pretty busy woman," the young mother and author admits.

But she is quick to add that she has also been a happy woman.

And that she intends to remain both busy and happy.

READING TO two of her three young sons is Mrs. Felix (Sandol Stoddard) Warburg of Belvedere. Soon Mrs. Warburg will be able to read her own book to Peter, 6, center, and Gerry, 5, and to their older brother, Andy, 9. Her "The Thinking Book" is scheduled for publication by Little, Brown and Co. on Aug. 24. (Photo by Ken Molino)

HANGING A PICTURE in his new art gallery at C and Fourth streets in San Rafael is Adriaan Klaver. Klaver formerly operated a San Francisco art gallery which he sold to retire. But, he discovered, retirement did not agree with him. And now he's back in the business. (Independent-Journal photo)

Art Dealer Is Happy Again; He's Back Selling Paintings

Last August Adriaan Klaver sold his art gallery at 516 Geary Street, San Francisco and retired.

But it wasn't long before he discovered that he didn't like retirement. And, especially, he didn't like the separation from his beloved art.

He found himself acquiring oil paintings again. A six-weeks trip to Europe in the fall of 1958 proved especially fruitful.

And soon Klaver found that he had no less than 100 imported oils stored in his garage.

The result: Another Klaver Art Gallery.

This one is located at 1246 Fourth Street, corner of Fourth and C, in San Rafael, open six days a week, 1 to 6 p. m.

Klaver, now 72, says he was drawn to San Rafael for two primary reasons. First, he says he felt there was a need for an art gallery here.

Secondly, he feels a personal attachment to the city because his son, Frank, a civil engineer in New York, married a San Rafael girl, the former Mary Howe.

Furthermore, Klaver believes that the San Rafael location will permit him to adopt a more leisurely business pace than did his San Francisco establishment.

This, he explains, is because he expects a different kind of clientele.

In San Francisco most of his customers were tourists, often from distant points.

"This meant that I spent many an evening wrestling with paintings and crates, preparing them for shipment," he recalls.

Here in Marin he expects to sell largely to local residents.

This difference in type of clientele is not expected by Klaver to affect the kind of painting he handles and sells.

"TOURISTS or local residents, they all like good art," he says.

Klaver handles strictly oils—no watercolors or prints—imported from Europe.

Already hanging on the walls of his new gallery are a wide variety of works — still-life, street scenes, landscapes, seascapes, clown faces, etc.—by European artists.

His frames, too, are imported.

"I'm able to offer them at a good price because of the favorable rate of exchange," he says.

Klaver is not himself an artist.

BEFORE GOING into the art gallery business he was an automobile dealer in his native Holland.

He prefers selling paintings to selling cars. But most of all, he prefers being busy to being retired.

"I found out that retirement is not for me," he says. "I don't intend to overwork. But neither do I intend to be idle."

A Lovely Book For The Children

LOVE IS A SPECIAL WAY OF FEELING by Joan Walsh Anglund, Harcourt, Brace and Co., unpaged $1.75. Reviewed by Claudia Royal.

This is a lovely little book with a great message.

The illustrations enhance the brief text many fold. It's a beautiful gift for a small child, a young person, and, yes, an adult. But it is especially recommended for the young child.

Is Man Bringing Another 'Ice Age?'

FRONTIERS OF THE SEA by Robert C. Cowen, Doubleday and Co., 306 pages, $4.95. Reviewed by Richard Steinheimer.

"Frontiers of the Sea" perhaps comes as somewhat of a scientific "Amen" to the great popular book of a few years ago, "The Sea Around Us" by Rachael Carlson

Author Cowen writes with scientific plainness of the history of oceanography from the early Mediterranean musing of Aristotle down to discoveries made during the recent International Geophysical Year.

In a mere 12 chapters Cowen outlines the major scientific facts and theories about the origin and actions of the sea.

After polishing off the known facts of the oceans, Cowen tears into what perhaps are the book's real messages: The tinkering of man with atomic wastes and the carbon dioxide content of the atmosphere may have profound ultimate effect on the oceans of the world, and that the science of oceanography is in a pretty pitiful state for the potential value it offers man.

Cowen calls the influx of carbon dioxide into the air from burning of fuels "the greatest weather experiment ever made."

Will the effect of this cloud of gas in the atmosphere and in the sea bring on another Ice Age? Or another tropic era? That he says is what man must learn.

As for need for more scientific ships, the author points out that the only first-rate oceanographic fleet in the world is that of the Soviet Union, with seven research ships, two icebreakers and a submarine.

A possible favorite chapter for non-scientists: The birth of oceanography with tales of the amazing amateur Prince Albert Charles of Monoco whose passion for study of the sea once virtually turned a beautiful beach in his country into a whaling station.

Conclusion: A good fuse with which to touch off our oceanographers-to-be.

A HUGE CONVEYOR is part of the equipment in the new United Markets warehouse. Office manager Fred Saccone and firm president, Bernard Saccone check that operation with warehouse foreman Leonard Single. Draymen in the truck are Barney Hensel and Edgar P. Harney.

UNITED MARKETS is already making extensive use of its new warehouse, built by the William H. McDevitt Co. at the corner of Auburn and Jacoby in San Rafael. Walls are of tilt-up reinforced concrete. In about a month Saccone brothers, owners of United Markets, plan to begin operating a wholesale grocery distribution center from the new building serving other retail stores in addition to their own markets. (Photos by Ken Molino)

Good Planning Pays Off In Building A Warehouse

The necessity for proper design and planning as well as quality construction in homes, public buildings and commercial establishments is universally recognized.

The layman, however, s likely to look upon a warehouse building as a barn-like structure to be thrown up as cheaply as possible with minimum or no planning.

Undeniably, this has been true of many a warehouse.

But the new United Markets wholesale distribution center soon to open at the corner of Auburn and Jacoby in San Rafael offers convincing proof that the well designed, well planned and well executed warehouse is a tribute to the building trade as well as a boon to its occupants and users.

The new United Markets structure was designed and built by William H. McDevitt Co. of San Rafael, employing tilt-up industrial construction, one of the firm's specialties.

The new building boasts 33,000 square feet of warehouse space plus an additional 3,000 square feet of office space.

To be known as the Saccone Bros. Wholesale Grocers (the Saccone brothers are the owners of United Markets), it will soon become Marin's first wholesale grocery, when its services will be made available to other Marin retail groceries as well as to the United Markets.

The building, started March 1 of this year, was completed in three and one-half months. Occupation began on June 15. In addition to tilt-up reinforced concrete walls, the building featured wood truss roofs, thoroughly insulated and ventilated to provide cool, year-round dry storage.

Offices offer hardwood paneled walls with sound-deadening partition acoustic ceilings and modern fluorescent lighting. Windows were designed by McDevitt to face north for a no-glare condition in all work areas.

A special feature of the new headquarters - office - warehouse building is a testing kitchen. There new products are thoroughly tested before the Saccones stock them for their markets.

Bernard Saccone, United Markets president, says that the McDevitt plan of providing an all-inclusive building plan covering soil engineering, site planning, architectural services, engineering and construction, was a major factor in the selection of the Marin firm for this and other United Market projects.

"This permits us to go right on concentrating on the grocery business while McDevitt worries about getting up our markets," he says.

Actually, the William H. McDevitt Co. built the new building for Crocker-McDevitt Enterprises, a real estate investment firm owned jointly by William H. McDevitt and Herbert Crocker. But the structure was designed to the exact requirements of and leased to United Markets by Crocker - McDevitt Enterprises.

INSIDE THE NEW warehouse is well stocked with foodstuffs. The building was planned especially for the cool, dry storage necessary for keeping delectables at their tastiest.

United Markets opened its first big supermarket in Marin at 515 Third Street in San Rafael in 1955. With the addition of the San Anselmo market in 1959, the firm has been serving from 18,000 to 20,000 Marin customers a day. A third United Market store has been in operation on Noriega Street in San Francisco since 1949.

Another United Market will be built in Mill Valley by the McDevitt Company sometime this year. Bernard Saccone says it is hoped that establishment will be in business before Christmas.

While Bernard Saccone still resides in San Francisco, he plans to move to Marin eventually. His son, Fred, office manager for the firm, with his wife and two children, has bought a new home in Novato. And Bernard's brother, Joseph, company secretary, lives with his wife, Elda, and their two children in a new home in San Rafael. The builder: Again the McDevitt Company.

The Newest Thing In Race Craft

A new design idea for sailing craft has done what most experts said couldn't be done.

For years naval architects held fast to the assumption that only round-bottom hulls were practical for sail boats intended for competition. But Seattle, Wash., designer Ben Seaborn questioned this old conception and has subsequently proved that a hard chine, or vee bottom sailing racer is not only practical but capable of outstanding performances.

Working under commission from Douglas Fir Plywood Assn., Seaborn developed a new 26-foot plywood racing sloop called the Thunderbird. When she was launched, she was turned over to a number of expert skippers for trial. In her first three outings in Tacoma, she landed two firsts and one second.

Doug Sherwood, well-known Puget Sound skipper and seasoned racer, had this to say about the new sloop: "She's both fast and responsive and surprisingly stiff in a blow.

"She heels easily but just so far; then those deep, hard chines buoy her solidly upon her best sailing lines. The cockpit is dry in seas you'd expect to leave you sopping wet.

"And she's the roomiest 26-footer I've ever seen."

Three Thunderbirds have been built and at least 12 more are under construction. The new owners will write class rules, organize a class and select a class name

Landscapers Add Touches Of Beauty

Last week photographer Ken Molino's camera brought Marin Magazine readers some striking examples of what home owners in the county have done to beautify homes, gardens and yards, with the aid of landscape architects and landscape contractors.

Here on this page are some more Molino pictures of Marin patios and decks—all outstanding examples of the work of Cagwine and Dorward, landscape contractors, in cooperation with three different landscape architects.

Shade Helps Gardener On Summer Days

On warm days it is his refuge from the unrelenting glare of noonday sun. It soothes and refreshes him and lifts up his spirits.

But as every gardener knows, a patch of shade does not a shade garden make. There's a big difference between shade from a Live Oak on a barren foothill slope and shade as you find it in a fine city park or beside a rushing stream. The one gives you only brief respite while the others provide a sanctuary from heat.

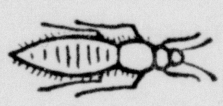
Here's Big Bug Backfield For Summer Garden Play

It is in late summer that the war between gardener and insect pest is at its hottest.

But before the gardener can wage really effective war, he must first recognize just which bugs he is fighting. To aid him in making such an identification, here are some of the insects which most commonly show up in Marin gardens.

ROSE LEAFHOPPERS

Rose Leafhoppers are soft-bodied insects up to one-eighth inch in length. They appear yellowish-white in color. They cause leaves to whiten and curl and kill tender plant tips by draining plant juices. Leafhoppers may be slowed down by repeated application of nicotine sulphate to both top and bottom sides of leaves.



THRIPS

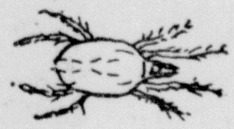
Thrips are slender-shaped hairy creatures, yellow to brown in color. They can cause flower petals to become flecked and discolored. They also deform flowers by feeding on tender parts. They can be controlled by weekly sprayings with nicotine sulphate and by removing flowers that have reached their prime.

MEALYBUG

A white waxy looking bug that only grows to a length of about one-fifth of an inch. It is usually found in colonies along the underside of leaves and in the crevices at the base of the leaf stems. The Mealybug can be killed to prevent leaf distortion by spraying with a nicotine sulphate spray in oil.

APHIDS

Aphids are soft-bodied insects about one-eighth inch long of green, pink, red or brown coloring. They are usually found in clusters at the tips of young shoots. They reduce plant vigor, curl leaves and can cause malformation of flowers. They are killed by application of nicotine sulphate.

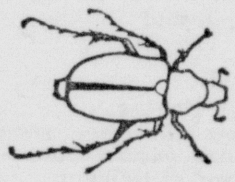


RED SPIDER MITES

Tiny mites found in swarms on undersides of leaves. Their attacks for food can cause browning of foliage, red spots and leaf fall. Red Spider mites can be diminished in numbers by application of Malathion and frequent washing with a strong stream of water.

WEBWORM

Sometimes called "Tent Caterpillars" the Webworms gather in apartment-like webs in trees. They feed heavily on foliage, humping along from leaf to leaf. These black and brown hairy creatures can be killed by spraying or dusting with DDT powder.



ROSE CHAFER

Rose Chafers are hard shelled beetles with long legs. They are grayish-brown in color and grow to a length of approximately one-fourth inch. They are generally found in clusters feeding on flowers. Chafers may be controlled by application of Rose dusts.

Don't Delay In Planting For Shade

It's amazing the number of people who arrive at midsummer and realize how badly their garden needs shade. And it's even more amazing how many of them put off planting it until winter, only to forget it then because they don't need shade at the time.

We'd like to suggest that the time to plant shade is when you think of it. And if that time is now, there's no need waiting for bare root season. A check with the nurseryman indicates that your choice of material is abundant right now. He has a large assortment of trees growing in containers that can be planted in your yard today.

When you've agreed to this, it remains only to determine which tree is for you—or better, for your garden. The gardener must choose between the unchanging shade of an evergreen and the seasonal product of a deciduous tree.

A CHECKLIST FOR MARIN GARDENERS

✔ Water, water everywhere is the gardener's motto for August. Be sure to give plants a good soaking, not just a sprinkle.

✔ Start working up a seedbed now if you plan to plant a new lawn next month. Dig in plenty of manure while you're at it, as well as a weed and weed seed control which your nurseryman can recommend.

✔ Don't fret about powdery mildew on tuberous begonias. It's easy to control with spraying. Be sure spray is recommended for begonia mildew.

✔ Roses and shrubs need a liberal feeding this month if you haven't given it already. Work and water it in. (Before you use any fertilizer, read the directions.)

✔ Any lawn looks better if neatly trimmed around the edges. Edgers make the job easy.

Why So Little Creative Drama On TV? Here's The Writer's Answer

WHAT IS driving the creative writer of drama from television?

Marya Mannes, TV critic, says that lack of money, lack of prestige and lack of freedom are all factors.

But, she contends, it is the lack of freedom "to write in terms of his own truth" that has been the greatest cause for the departure of the talented writer of things dramatic from the television industry.

She advances the argument in "The Relation of the Writer to Television," a discussion that has been published as a 31-page booklet by the Fund for the Republic's Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions.

Participating in that discussion, in addition to Miss Mannes, were dramatists of the caliber of Rod Serling, Robert A. Aurthur and Irve Tunick; Evelyn Burkey, executive director of the Writers' Guild of America, and Prof. Eric Goldman, Frank Kelly and Robert Horton, all associated with the Fund for the Republic Center's continuing study of mass media.

The introduction is by Miss Mannes. And it is there that she summarizes the chief complaint of the writers—that their creative endeavors for TV have been throttled by "the power of the sponsor over the word, and the domination of the TV medium and of the networks by commercial interests."

"Given freedom," she says, "the dramatist could bring the urgent realities of today to Americans with more impact and eloquence than any abstract discussion or competent documentary, proving, beyond a doubt, that entertainment and enlightenment are wholly compatible, and that ideas are the living stuff of drama."

Miss Mannes and her fellow panelists go beyond the contention that the writer of television drama should be given the power to determine what he shall write about and how he shall write it. He should also have the authority to determine where his play may be interrupted for commercials, they hold.

Miss Mannes says: "If a commercial, moreover, is injurious to the mood or continuity of his script, he should have the right to question its tone and placement and request a change. If a sponsor wants a hack, he can hire a hack. But if a sponsor hires talent, he assumes an obligation to respect that talent."

In their discussion the writers cite a number of examples of alleged interference with their work by agencies and sponsors—often abetted by the networks.

The always outspoken Serling accuses the sponsors and networks of failing to stand up to pressure — "these are frightened people," he says —and charges that the sponsor is forcing more and more commercials into the programs he buys.

"If a sponsor chooses to utilize the dramatic form as the vehicle of his communication, he has to take with it certain responsibilities which are innate in the form he chooses," Serling claims. "Drama is not a bastardized thing which exists in a vacuum. This is an aspect of culture that has its roots in many past ages. With it come certain ageless standards, certain ancient concepts of quality.

"If a sponsor chooses the play as a kind of piggy-back on which he wants to use his commercials, then he has to respect the form he has chosen."

Regardless of the merits of the arguments of the writers and Miss Mannes, it is certainly true that quality drama written especially for the media has all but disappeared from the television screen.

Just about the only exceptions are the infrequent specials. And these are much more likely to be based upon a classic or an earlier movie or stage hit. Original TV drama is seldom seen these days.

This can only be regarded as dismaying by those of us who remember such plays of the past as "Marty," "Requiem for a Heavyweight," and "Little Moon of Alban" as among television's finest hours.

The writers' discussion of the situation is, of course, only one side of the picture. And any summary here must be brief and incomplete. But if you are interested in reading the complete text of the discussion, you can obtain a copy free of charge by writing the Fund for the Republic's Center for the Study of Democratic Institutions main office at Box 4068, Santa Barbara.

It's well worth the reading.

WHAT'S BREWING in the video pot?

KPIX-TV (Channel 5) will carry both the Miss America Parade on Sept. 6 and the Miss America Pageant on Sept. 10 from Atlantic City . . . A new full-hour Fred Astaire show is scheduled for NBC and KRON-TV (Channel 4) on Sept. 28 with Barrie Chase again to be featured along with Count Basie . . . KTVU TV (Channel 2) launches the much-praised Play of the Week series on Sept. 14 at 8 p.m. with a two-hour production of "Medea" starring Dame Judith Anderson.

Gary Cooper will make his TV debut in the NBC Project 20 show, "The Real West," to be seen next spring . . . CBS has scheduled a one-hour historical revue of U. S. Presidential campaigns entitled "The Right Man" and starring Garry Moore . . . The 1960-61 series of nine Dow Hour Great Mysteries will open Sept. 9 on NBC with the "The Datchet Diamonds" starring Rex Harrison and Tammy Grimes.
